Kansas Digs Out After Blizzard Paralyzes Area

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Kansas City is digging out from under 15 inches of snow today after the worst blizzard in 46 years.

The storm left 17 dead in Kansas, Missouri, Iowa and Illinois, as it whipped on a northeastward path Tuesday night.

It left 10 to 12 inches of snow in southeastern Iowa, northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin before blowing itself out along the Great Lakes.

Most of the deaths were attributed either to accidents on slick roadways or heart attacks after shoveling snow or bucking drifts.

The storm concentrated its worst punishment on an ellipse straddling the Missouri-Kansas line and bounded by Topeka, Kan., and St. Joseph, Lexington and Butler, Mo. Topeka is 68 miles west of Kansas City, St. Joseph is 55 miles north, Lexington is 40 miles east and Butler 70 miles south.

MOST OF THIS area got at least a foot of snow. Odessa, Mo., 38 miles east of Kansas City, had 18 inches. Kansas City's 15 was the greatest snow depth since a two-day, 25-inch storm in March 1912.

A frigid paralysis still gripped the Missouri-Kansas area today.

Nearly all the schools were closed and industrial plants were shut down.

Council Hears Proposal on Subdivision

City Council last night heard a proposal calling for a new subdivision in the northeast section of Circleville.

The plan, sponsored by Raymond Rader, Route 3, Circleville, was presented by James Price, Chillicothe engineer. According to the proposal the project would be called Ridgewood Subdivision.

The area involved is along Route 158. It would run across from Nicholas Drive and then northeast paralleling the corporation line.

Before taking action on the proposal council agreed to look at the area and further discuss the matter. Solicitor Robert Huffer was authorized to check the city statutes involved and make a report on his findings.

Council also agreed to discuss the matter during a special meeting which will be held Tuesday night at 8 p. m. in the council chambers.

Klansman Facing Trial; Preacher To Put Up Bond

LUMBERTON, N. C. (AP)—A Ku Klux Klansman went on trial today for drunkenness and carrying concealed weapons as police await the arrest of a fugitive Klan leader charged with inciting riot.

The charges stemmed from a Klan rally at nearby Maxton Saturday night, broken up by several hundred Indians firing rifles and shotguns.

Sheriff Malcolm McLeod sent an arrest order to Marion, S.C., Sheriff J. Leon Gasque Tuesday, asking the immediate arrest of the Rev. James Cole, 33, a Free Will Baptist minister who bills himself as leader of the Klan in the Carolinas.

Sheriff Gasque said he received the arrest order this morning and telephoned Rev. Mr. Cole at his home that he would have to come in and post bond or that he would be arrested and returned to North Carolina.

The sheriff said Rev. Mr. Cole told him he would come in and post bond.

Chennault in Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP)—Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault, retired air commander of World War II fame in China, entered Walter Reed Hospital Tuesday for examination of lung cancer.

City Councilmen Discuss Various Business Matters

City Council, meeting for the second time this year, discussed a variety of business last night in the local chambers.

One of the first items was the naming of committees by Richard Penn, council president. Penn introduced a motion to the body which calls for a total of four committees rather than the usual six or seven.

Penn's plan was adopted by a 5-1 vote. The motion calls for committees on service, safety, utilities and finance.

Municipal Judge Sterling M. Lamb presented the solons with a report on city council activities for 1957. The judge pointed out the increased number of cases handled in his court and the substantial increase in income for the year. An ordinance calling for an increase in the court clerk's pay was held for future action.

COUNCIL then recessed to discuss and hear plans of a proposed new subdivision in the northeast section of Circleville (See separate story on page one).

An ordinance introduced at the last meeting which would vacate an area along west Ohio St. was held for further discussion.

The area in question is owned by the Container Corporation of America. If vacated, the company will use the ground for storage.

Clerk Robert Shadley introduced an ordinance proposing appropriation of funds for the purchase of a house on N. Court St., the land to be used to enlarge the entrance at Ted Lewis Park. The ordinance calls for appropriation of $9,000. The proposal was made at the last meeting by Mayor Ben H. Gordon.

Clerk Shadley was authorized to advertise a public hearing on rezoning an area bounded by E. Main and Franklin Sts. The area involved begins at the junction of E. Main and E. Franklin St. running west along E. Main St. to the third alley west of Mingo St., then south to Pleasant Alley (between Main and Franklin Sts.) then east to the second alley east of Mingo St. and then south to Franklin St.

Likewise, only 44 per cent of the December receipts graded No. 3 or better compared with 61 per cent.

Much of the 1957-crop corn is of high moisture content, reflecting unfavorable weather during the harvest and post-harvest season.

The U. S. Food and Drug Administration has approved the use of specified amounts of penicillin in block salt and mixed feeds as an aid for prevention and control of blatt in livestock.

The salt-penicillin is fed both before and during the time of grazing on blatt-producing forages.

U.S. Science Policy Labeled 'Silly'

WASHINGTON (AP)—A scientific leader today described some U.S. restrictions on visiting Red scientists as "silly little international spiballs."

Dr. Warren Weaver, vice president of the Rockefeller Foundation, said the United States has a "queer and unbelievable" policy on such visits that makes the nation look ridiculous.

In saying U.S. policy hurts needed exchange of scientific data, Weaver said a Russian can visit Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Cambridge, Mass., with its vast store of important scientific activities, but cannot go to the Harvard Medical School "because that is across the line in Boston and Boston has been ruled out of bounds."

Marine Sentenced

YOKOSUKA, Japan (AP)—A sentence of two years imprisonment at hard labor was given today to Marine Sgt. Adrian A. McLane of Philadelphia, Pa., for cruelty against U. S. Navy prisoners.

The ordinance asks that this area be changed from a class B residential zone to a commercial zone classification. The motion for public hearing, made by Councilman Charles Kirkpatrick, was carried, 5-1.

A LETTER from Mayor Gordon appointing Mrs. George C. Barnes and Mrs. Robert Young to serve on the city board of health was accepted by a 6-0 vote.

Councilman Boyd Horn suggested that council meet with Norfolk and Western and Pennsylvania Railroad officials to discuss unfavorable safety conditions now existing at various crossings within the city. The solons agreed to arrange a future meeting with railroad representatives.

The meeting ended in a humorous note when the lawmakers good naturedly excused the absence of councilman David Crawford who is enjoying his honeymoon in the South.

Wyatt Resigns Council Post

2nd Ward Official Moves From City

William Wyatt, city councilman from the 2nd Ward, submitted his resignation during a meeting of the local solons last night in city hall.

Wyatt, councilman here since October of 1956, has accepted a position in Zanesville. He has already established his new residence there. His new job is with the Burnham Foundry Co. in that city.

Wyatt was appointed as 2nd Ward Councilman to fill the vacancy of Lee Cook who moved to Virginia in 1956.

Council, accepting his resignation, voiced its regret in hearing of Wyatt's resignation.

IN HIS farewell address Wyatt recommended that Robert Moyer, 538 E. Franklin St., be named to fill his vacancy. Moyer is superintendent of schools in Kingston.

Council agreed to discuss a new appointment next week.

Money Bill Vote Awaited

House Expected Today To OK Military Fund

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Mahon (D-Tex.) said today the nation should "face the future and get on with the job" of surpassing Russian missile gains.

Mahon, chairman of the House Defense Appropriations subcommittee, spoke before the House called up for expected unanimous passage a $1.4 billion money bill to help speed U. S. defense preparations.

The total includes the full $1.2 billion in new funds asked by President Eisenhower and authority to transfer another $150 million ($40 millions more than Eisenhower asked) of available funds to missiles and other newer programs.

An agreement to take no rollcall votes until Thursday delayed final House action on a bill to raise the national debt limit to $280 billion from the present $275 billion.

The House shouted down a move aimed at holding the increase to $3 billion.

REP. MARTIN (Mass.), House Republican leader, urged Republican members "not to put our own administration in a strait-jacket" by rejecting the increase.

"We must face the fact that we have realities to consider," he said in reference to expected increases in defense costs.

Rep. Byrnes (R-Wis.) contended the boost would encourage more spending. Rep. Mason (R-Ill.), agreeing, blamed the high debt level on "both the New Deal spenders and the Modern Republican spenders."

Little opposition was expected to the defense money bill, and Mahon expressed confidence "we can meet the challenge to our country." He said that "our intelligent people have become aware of a previous miscalculation of Soviet progress."

Basso Stalks Off Rome's Opera Stage

ROME (AP)—Another singer has walked out on the Rome opera season, this time a basso who got in a spat with a tenor.

The latest "Callas" was pulled by Boris Christoff, known in America for his performances as Boris Godunov.

Sources at the opera house said he stalked off the stage during a rehearsal Monday night of Verdi's "Don Carlos" after a heated argument with tenor Franco Corelli. The issue reportedly was who should have the more prominent place on the stage.

Tuesday night basso Mario Petri took over Christoff's role at the dress rehearsal. The opera sources said Christoff wouldn't sing unless the opera management apologized to him. The managers reportedly answered they owed no apologies, that the fuss was a personal matter between the two singers.

The first walkout of the Rome season was staged by soprano Maria Callas, who broke up the opening night performance of Bellini's "Norma" after the first act.

News of World in Brief

Venezuelan City Under Curfew

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—A dusk-to-dawn curfew was in effect in Caracas today and government troops were ordered to fire on anyone disturbing the peace after an outbreak of rioting during a general strike.

Reports reaching Washington said 20 persons were killed and 100 injured in street fighting in a workers' area of Caracas Tuesday. They said 1,000 persons were arrested after the clash. Strict censorship prevailed.

The U. S. State Department said there were no reports of any Americans being injured or American property damaged. About 40,000 Americans lived in Venezuela and U. S. investments there total about $3 billion.

The strike was called by underground opponents of President Marcos Perez Jimenez, who three weeks ago survived a short-lived revolt by the Air Force and some Army units. Since then Caracas has been in a continual state of tension.

Business in downtown Caracas began closing about noon and crowds gathered in the city's main square. Heavily armed police used tear gas to clear the square after the crowds taunted them with anti-government slogans and stoned buses.

OTTAWA (AP)—Canada's Conservative government Tuesday night easily defeated two no confidence motions that never had been expected to pass.

A motion of the small Socialist Cooperative Commonwealth Federation (CCF) lost 221-24. A demand by the Liberal party that the Conservatives hand over the government without an election was turned back 150-95.

HONG KONG (AP)—The chief justice of a Manchurian Supreme Court has accused the Chinese Communists of wrongfully punishing innocent people. Organized pressure forced him to back down on the charge.

Judge Pao Ting-ken of the court in Kirin said according to the Peiping Peoples Daily, the judiciary was in constant strife and prisoners were executed or released according to personal likes and dislikes.

PARIS (AP)—The upward march of prices in France hit coiffes today. The government approved a 15 per cent increase on all models to match recent increases in raw materials and salaries.

Arson Suspected In Mt. Sterling Hotel Blaze

MT. STERLING (AP)—Authorities here are investigating the possibility of arson in a $70,000 fire in a downtown hotel Tuesday.

The fire destroyed a 70-year-old building housing the Tenny Hotel, a five-and-ten-cent store and a beer carry-out establishment.

Mrs. Sara Willis, manager of the five-and-ten-cent store and a resident of the hotel, told investigators she heard glass breaking in the hallway outside her door shortly before the fire started. She said she went to the hallway and saw separate fires at both ends.

None of the hotel's occupants was injured, but two firemen suffered minor injuries in fighting the blaze.

The building is owned by W. I. Williams of Mount Sterling. Mount Sterling Mayor Max Chenoweth said the blaze caused an estimated $70,000 in damages to the hotel, the stores and the stores' contents.

Gas Pocket Explodes

FARMINGTON, N. M. (AP)—Gas, lying like a low cloud in a large natural depression, exploded late Tuesday as a string of about 70 cars started through it. Twelve persons were injured.

Defense Chief May Testify

Top-Secret Report Back of New Query

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense McElroy may be questioned by the Senate Preparedness subcommittee today about a top-secret report that called for a "military attack strategy" to offset Russian power.

Chairman Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) brought the subject into a public hearing briefly Tuesday by quoting from the report and asking a comment on it by retired Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, then testifying.

Nimitz made it clear in reply that he was opposed to "the idea of preventive war."

Johnson quickly agreed and said the committee also was opposed to it.

Nimitz said in reply to questions that he "seriously doubts" there will be another world war. He said "people the world over are tired of war," and expressed hope that internal improvements in Russia will lessen the danger of war.

THE QUOTED portion of the report made no mention of preventive war, and the reference to attack strategy apparently emphasized strategic planning and capability rather than direct attack.

Some U. S. military leaders have come near to suggesting that this nation should not permit Russia to decide when and where a future war should begin. But basic defense policy of the United States has been that the nation will defend but never start a war.

Without identifying the source, Johnson read from a bulky volume these recommendations:

"The United States must combine its defensive deterrent strategy with a military attack strategy that reduces the Soviets' strength well below that of the free world and then persuade the Soviets to accept the role of a peaceful, though strong, nation in a world of free nations."

REA Interest Income Tops Federal Cost

WASHINGTON (AP)—Financial records showed today that the government has collected nearly $50 million more interest than it paid on money loaned through the Rural Electrification Administration (REA).

The REA makes loans for development of rural electric power and telephone projects. In the last 22 years the loans have totaled nearly $3 billion.

The $50 million figure does not take into account, however, records showing that administrative costs of the program during its 22 years total $115 million.

The cost of government lending operations under the REA program has become an important item in a controversy over an administration move to get Congress to raise the REA rate to borrowers above the present 2 per cent legal figure. The administration says REA rates should cover the cost of the money to the federal treasury.

Records show that since 1952, the REA rate has been less than the cost of money to the government. But prior to that time it was more. Hence an accumulation of profits over losses, as shown in REA budget records.

Soviet Skipper Hails U.S. Aid

HONOLULU (AP)—The skipper of a disabled Russian freighter Gen. Panfilov praised the reception given him at the tightly restricted U. S. Navy station at Midway Island Tuesday.

The Navy, which did not name the skipper, said he sent a message to the Soviet port of Vladivostok saying: "Arrived today US naval station Midway and received excellent attention, service and cooperation from pilot and command."

The Panfilov and another Russian ship, the Odessa, were granted permission to enter the area after being damaged in a Pacific storm last week.

Buffalo Blast Hurts Scores

Railroad Tank Car's Chemicals Blow Up

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—A railroad tank car filled with a chemical exploded with a thundering roar today, injuring scores of persons and causing widespread property damage.

Police said that no deaths had yet been reported.

The blast, heard for miles, plowed a huge crater in a railroad right-of-way and severely damaged houses in the immediate area.

The car was on tracks of the Niagara Junction Railroad, a service line owned by trunk railroads coming into this heavily industrialized city.

Hospitals reported a steady parade of emergency cases but no serious injuries.

Several pupils in Hyde Park Elementary School were reported cut by flying glass. Other schools also reported broken windows from the blast.

THE EXPLOSION occurred shortly after 9:30 a.m. in the Porter avenue section near the north-east city line. Police reported electric and telephone service in the area disrupted by the blast.

Smashed windows and broken plaster were reported from residents of an area nearly five miles in radius.

The chemical in the tank car was not identified.

Two Injured In Car Crash

Two men suffered injuries this morning in a two car collision on Route 23, about 14 miles north of Circleville near the intersection of Route 762.

Kenneth Hardman, 43, Route 1, Laurelville, received a lacerated forehead and Ralph J. Soper suffered a lacerated right knee and left leg. First aid was administered at the scene.

According to Robert Glover, Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff, Hardman stopped his automobile on the road to see if he had a flat tire. Before Hardman had a chance to get out of the car an automobile driven by Eugene Keaton, 165 Hayward Ave., was unable to stop and drove into the back of the Hardman car.

Jasper was a passenger in the Keaton car. Heavy damage to the front end was inflicted on the Keaton automobile and damage to the left rear end was incurred by the Hardman car.

Deputy Hoover said that traffic conditions were hazardous at the time of the accident.

Kansas Digs Out After Blizzard Paralyzes Area

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Kansas City is digging out from under 15 inches of snow today after the worst blizzard in 46 years.

The storm left 17 dead in Kansas, Missouri, Iowa and Illinois, as it whipped on a northeastward path Tuesday night.

It left 10 to 12 inches of snow in southeastern Iowa, northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin before blowing itself out along the Great Lakes.

Most of the deaths were attributed either to accidents on slick roadways or heart attacks after shoveling snow or bucking drifts.

The storm concentrated its worst punishment on an ellipse straddling the Missouri-Kansas line and bounded by Topeka, Kan., and St. Joseph, Lexington and Butler, Mo. Topeka is 68 miles west of Kansas City, St. Joseph is 55 miles north, Lexington is 40 miles east and Butler 70 miles south.

MOST OF THIS AREA got at least a foot of snow. Odessa, Mo., 38 miles east of Kansas City, had 18 inches. Kansas City's 15 was the greatest snow depth since a two-day, 25-inch storm in March 1912. A frigid paralysis still gripped the Missouri-Kansas area today.

Nearly all the schools were closed and industrial plants were shut down.

Snow drifts up to six feet deep blocked five major highways: U.S. Routes 36, 24, 40, 50, and 71. Other main arteries were reduced to one way traffic in spots.

The snow let up in Kansas City at 5:40 p. m. after 26 hours. Thirteen inches fell in the final 12 hours, an all-time record.

Wind gusts up to 40 miles an hour whipped it into drifts and cut visibility at times to less than a block. Temperatures were in the low 20s.

Main thoroughfares here were packed trenches only two lanes wide between high ridges of plowed snow at the curbs. Most side streets still were impassable, cluttered with abandoned cars.

Downtown hotels overflowed with stranded suburbanites.

Forecasters reported a new snowstorm brewing in the West and said it might hit southwest Kansas tonight.

While the storm was virtually spent, snow continued to fall in the vast area bounded by the Mississippi River and western Ohio and the southern Great Lakes to Kentucky and Tennessee.

SNOW WAS expected to dwindle to flurries and gradually end today in the Ohio Valley region.

The Ohio Department of Highways' weather bulletin today listed highways as slippery in spots north and west of a line through Painesville, Chardon, Medina, Wooster, Mount Gilead, Columbus, Circleville, Hillsboro and West Union.

Roads also are reported slippery in spots in Lancaster, New Lexington, Zanesville and the Canton area. Secondary roads are slippery in spots in Chillicothe, Waverly and Portsmouth. High water conditions exist on Ohio 680 in Meigs County and Ohio 50 in Athens County, but the roads are open to traffic.

Ag Industry Sets Pace for Productivity

WASHINGTON (AP)—Agriculture is outstripping the remainder of the American economy in increasing its productivity.

Government studies show that during the last 10 years, agriculture increased its productivity an average of 6 per cent a year.

The rate of increase for the remainder of the economy was only 2.8 per cent a year. The rate for manufacturing was 3.2 per cent and for the non-manufacturing activities, 2.6 per cent.

On a paid man-hour basis, agriculture's production in 1957 was nearly 84 per cent higher than in 1947 compared with about 29 per cent for non-agricultural activities.

Another government report says that the poorer quality of this season's corn crop is being reflected in market receipts.

The Agriculture Department reported today that only 5 per cent of the 1957-crop corn received at major markets in December graded No. 1. Normally 10 per cent of the December receipts grade No. 1.

Likewise, only 44 per cent of the December receipts graded No. 3 or better compared with 61 per cent.

Springfield Man Seriously Hurt by Shotgun Blast

DAYTON (AP)—A Springfield man, wounded critically in the stomach by a shotgun blast, staggered into Miami Valley Hospital early today.

County Detective Edward Knox identified the man as Shelton Nethery Jr., 27, of Springfield. The detective said the manner in which Nethery suffered the wound is not yet known.

Nethery's estranged wife, Coletta, of London, Ohio, and his mother, Mrs. Cresie Eichenberger, were at his bedside this morning.

Authorities said the man staggered into the hospital about 1:40 a. m., and that apparently he had been taken to the hospital in an auto which left immediately.

Venezuelan City Under Curfew

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—A dusk-to-dawn curfew was in effect in Caracas today and government troops were ordered to fire on anyone disturbing the peace after an outbreak of rioting during a general strike.

Reports reaching Washington said 20 persons were killed and 100 injured in street fighting in a workers' area of Caracas Tuesday. They said 1,000 persons were arrested after the clash. Strict censorship prevailed.

The U. S. State Department said there were no reports of any Americans being injured or American property damaged. About 40,000 Americans live in Venezuela and U. S. investments there total about $3 billion.

The strike was called by underground opponents of President Marcos Perez Jimenez, who three weeks ago survived a short-lived revolt by the Air Force and some Army units. Since then Caracas has been in a continual state of tension.

Business in downtown Caracas began closing about noon and crowds gathered in the city's main square. Heavily armed police used tear gas to clear the square after the crowds taunted them with anti-government slogans and stoned buses.

OTTAWA (AP)—Canada's Conservative government Tuesday night easily defeated two no confidence motions that never had been expected to pass.

A motion of the small Socialist Cooperative Commonwealth Federation (CCF) lost 221-24. A demand by the Liberal party that the Conservatives hand over an election was turned back 150-95.

HONG KONG (AP)—The chief justice of a Manchurian Supreme Court has accused the Chinese Communists of wrongfully punishing innocent people. Organized pressure forced him to back down on the charge.

Judge Pao Ting-ken of the court in Kirin said according to the Peiping Peoples Daily, the judiciary was in constant strife and prisoners were executed or released according to personal likes and dislikes.

PARIS (AP)—The upward march of prices in France hit coiffes today. The government approved a 15 per cent increase on all models to match recent increases in raw materials and salaries.

Arson Suspected In Mt. Sterling Hotel Blaze

MT. STERLING (AP)—Authorities here are investigating the possibility of arson in a $70,000 fire in a downtown hotel Tuesday.

The fire destroyed a 70-year-old building housing the Tenny Hotel, a five-and-ten-cent store and a beer carry-out establishment.

Mrs. Sara Willis, manager of the five-and-ten-cent store and a resident of the hotel, told investigators she heard glass breaking in the hallway outside her door shortly before the fire started. She said she went to the hallway and saw separate fires at both ends.

None of the hotel's occupants was injured, but two firemen suffered minor injuries in fighting the blaze.

The building is owned by W. I. Williams of Mount Sterling. Mount Sterling Mayor Max Chenoweth said the blaze caused an estimated $70,000 in damages to the hotel, the stores and the stores' contents.

Defense Chief May Testify

Top-Secret Report Back of New Query

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense McElroy may be questioned by the Senate Preparedness subcommittee today about a top-secret report that called for a "military attack strategy" to offset Russian power.

Chairman Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) brought the subject into a public hearing briefly Tuesday by quoting from the report and asking a comment on it by retired Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, then testifying.

Nimitz made it clear in reply that he was opposed to "the idea of preventive war."

Johnson quickly agreed and said the committee also was opposed to it.

Nimitz said in reply to questions that he "seriously doubts" there will be another world war. He said "people the world over are tired of war," and expressed hope that internal improvements in Russia will lessen the danger of war.

THE QUOTED portion of the report made no mention of preventive war, and the reference to attack strategy apparently emphasized strategic planning and capability rather than direct attack.

Some U. S. military leaders have come near to suggesting that this nation should not permit Russia to decide when and where a future war should begin. But basic defense policy of the United States has been that the nation will defend but never start a war.

Without identifying the source, Johnson read from a bulky volume these recommendations: "The United States must combine its defensive deterrent strategy with a military attack strategy that reduces the Soviet's strength well below that of the free world and then persuade the Soviets to accept the role of a peaceful, though strong, nation in a world of free nations."

REA Interest Income Tops Federal Cost

WASHINGTON (AP)—Financial records showed today that the government has collected nearly $50 million more interest than it paid on money loaned through the Rural Electrification Administration (REA).

The REA makes loans for development of rural electric power and telephone projects. In the last 22 years the loans have totaled nearly $3 billion.

The $50 million figure does not take into account, however, records showing that administrative costs of the program during its 22 years total $115 million.

The cost of government lending operations under the REA program has become an important item in a controversy over an administration move to get Congress to raise the REA rate to borrowers above the present 2 per cent legal figure. The administration says REA rates should cover the cost of the money to the federal treasury.

Records show that since 1952, the REA rate has been less than the cost of money to the government. But prior to that time it was more. Hence an accumulation of profits over losses, as shown in REA budget records.

Soviet Skipper Hails U.S. Aid

HONOLULU (AP)—The skipper of a disabled Russian freighter Gen. Panfilov praised the reception given him at the tightly restricted U. S. Navy station at Midway Island Tuesday.

The Navy, which did not name the skipper, said he sent a message to the Soviet port of Vladivostok saying: "Arrived today US naval station Midway and received excellent attention, service and cooperation from pilot and command."

The Panfilov and another Russian ship, the Odessa, were granted permission to enter the area after being damaged in a Pacific storm last week.

Council Hears Proposal on Subdivision

City Council last night heard a proposal calling for a new subdivision in the northeast section of Circleville.

The plan, sponsored by Raymond Rader, Route 3, Circleville, was presented by James Price, Chillicothe engineer. According to the proposal the project would be called Ridgewood Subdivision.

The area involved is along Route 188. It would run across from Nicholas Drive and then northeast paralleling the corporation line.

Before taking action on the proposal council agreed to look at the area and further discuss the matter. Solicitor Robert Huffer was authorized to check the city statutes involved and make a report on his findings.

Council also agreed to discuss the matter during a special meeting which will be held Tuesday night at 8 p. m. in the council chambers.

Klansman Facing Trial; Preacher To Put Up Bond

LUMBERTON, N. C. (AP)—A Ku Klux Klansman went on trial today for drunkenness and carrying concealed weapons as police await the arrest of a fugitive Klan leader charged with inciting riot.

The charges stemmed from a Klan rally at nearby Maxton Saturday night, broken up by several hundred Indians firing rifles and shotguns.

Sheriff Malcolm McLeod sent an arrest order to Marion, S.C., Sheriff J. Leon Gasque Tuesday, asking the immediate arrest of the Rev. James Cole, 33, a Free Will Baptist minister who bills himself as leader of the Klan in the Carolinas.

Sheriff Gasque said he received the arrest order this morning and telephoned Rev. Mr. Cole at his home that he would have to come in and post bond or that he would be arrested and returned to North Carolina.

The sheriff said Rev. Mr. Cole told him he would come in and post bond.

Decision Raps Price-Fixing

Ohio Fair Trade Rules On Fair Trade Deals

COLUMBUS (U-P) — The Ohio Supreme Court dealt price-fixing a blow today.

The court held that non-signers of "fair trade" contracts could charge less than the minimum retail price for trademarked products covered by the agreements.

The unanimous decision did not affect other sections of Ohio's Fair Trade Act, previously upheld by the courts, attorneys said.

Today's decision reversed Lake County courts that granted Union Carbide & Carbon Corp. an injunction to prevent retail stores in Mentor from selling Prestone antifreeze at less than minimum prices.

The Supreme Court ordered the low courts to dissolve an injunction against Bargain Fair, Inc., and Mentor Brands, Inc., because it "unconstitutionally denies the owner of property the right to sell it on terms of his own choosing."

THE STORE advertised Prestone for $2.49 a gallon. The manufacturer's "fair trade" price was $2.95 a gallon.

Ohio's Fair Trade Act permits the manufacturer of a branded or trademarked product to set minimum retail prices through contracts with dealers. The statute labels sale of such products at less than stipulated prices as an unfair trade practice.

In upsetting the section dealing with non-signers, the high court said it delegated legislative power to private persons and thus was invalid.

The Mentor stores said they obtained Prestone from a source other than the manufacturer and were not parties to fair trade agreements.

U.S. Brands Soviet Attack On Baghdad Pact as 'False'

WASHINGTON (U-P) — The United States today denounced as totally false a Soviet charge that Secretary of State Dulles is going to the Middle East to force U.S. missiles bases on the Baghdad Pact nations.

It branded as "incredibly arrogant" a Soviet declaration that the placement of nuclear and rocket bases in the Moslem states would be an insult to their religion.

This Soviet propaganda thrust, the United States suggested, amounts to an argument that the Moslem nations should be militarily inferior to the "atheistic system" of the Soviets who already have nuclear missiles.

Dulles will visit Tehran at the end of this week, then go on to Ankara, Turkey for a meeting of the Baghdad Pact nations' foreign ministers next week. His aim is to give fresh assurance of American support for the pact members' resistance to Soviet pressure and Communist penetration.

A FORMAL statement from the State Department replied today to the Soviet blast.

Officials said the attack on the Middle East defense system seemed designed to confuse and intimidate the Baghdad conference which will open in Ankara next Monday and continue through Thursday.

The United States is not a member of the treaty but has joined its military, economic and anti-subversion committees so that it participates in their planning.

In addition, the United States gives military and economic assistance to the members and last year undertook to help them develop better highways, railways and airways.

The Baghdad member nations are Pakistan, Iran, Iraq, Turkey and Britain. Turkey and Britain are also members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and Turkey along with some other NATO countries is due to get nuclear missile bases.

The Soviet verbal assault on Middle Eastern defenses came from Leonid Ilichev, Foreign Ministry spokesman. He told the Middle East countries that plans he said the United States has to establish nuclear and rocket bases on their territory would threaten their existence.

Decision Raps Price-Fixing

Ohio Court Rules On Fair Trade Deals

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court dealt price-fixing a blow today.

The court held that non-signers of "fair trade" contracts could charge less than the minimum retail price for trademarked products covered by the agreements.

The unanimous decision did not affect other sections of Ohio's Fair Trade Act, previously upheld by the courts, attorneys said.

Today's decision reversed Lake County courts that granted Union Carbide & Carbon Corp. an injunction to prevent retail stores in Mentor from selling Prestone anti-freeze at less than minimum prices.

The Supreme Court ordered the low courts to dissolve an injunction against Bargain Fair, Inc., and Mentor Brands, Inc., because it "unconstitutionally denies the owner of property the right to sell it on terms of his own choosing."

THE STORE advertised Prestone for $2.49 a gallon. The manufacturer's "fair trade" price was $2.95 a gallon.

Ohio's Fair Trade Act permits the manufacturer of a branded or trademarked product to set minimum retail prices through contracts with dealers. The statute labels sale of such products at less than stipulated prices as an unfair trade practice.

In upsetting the section dealing with non-signers, the high court said it delegated legislative power to private persons and thus was invalid.

The Mentor stores said they obtained Prestone from a source other than the manufacturer and were not parties to fair trade agreements.

U.S. Brands Soviet Attack On Baghdad Pact as 'False'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States today denounced as totally false a Soviet charge that Secretary of State Dulles is going to the Middle East to force U.S. missiles bases on the Baghdad Pact nations.

It branded as "incredibly arrogant" a Soviet declaration that the placement of nuclear and rocket bases in the Moslem states would be an insult to their religion.

This Soviet propaganda thrust, the United States suggested, amounts to an argument that the Moslem nations should be militarily inferior to the "atheistic system" of the Soviets who already have nuclear missiles.

Dulles will visit Tehran at the end of this week, then go on to Ankara, Turkey for a meeting of the Baghdad Pact nations' foreign ministers next week. His aim is to give fresh assurance of American support for the pact members' resistance to Soviet pressure and Communist penetration.

A formal statement from the State Department replied today to the Soviet blast.

Officials said the attack on the Middle East defense system seemed designed to confuse and intimidate the Baghdad conference which will open in Ankara next Monday and continue through Thursday.

The United States is not a member of the treaty but has joined its military, economic and anti-subversion committees so that it participates in their planning.

In addition, the United States gives military and economic assistance to the members and last year undertook to help them develop better highways, railways and airways.

The Baghdad member nations are Pakistan, Iran, Iraq, Turkey and Britain. Turkey and Britain are also members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and Turkey along with some other NATO countries is due to get nuclear missile bases.

The Soviet verbal assault on Middle Eastern defenses came from Leonid Illichev, Foreign Ministry spokesman. He told the Middle East countries that plans he said the United States has to establish nuclear and rocket bases on their territory would threaten their existence.

Stocks Rally, Then Return Irregular

NEW YORK (AP)—Wall Street greeted the latest credit-easing moves with a short burst of enthusiasm today, then the stock market lapsed into irregularity. Trading was quiet early this afternoon.

Key stocks showed a mixture of gains and losses running from fractions to around a point.

The market was slightly higher following overnight news that the discount rate had been cut to 2 1/4 per cent from 3 per cent for the Philadelphia federal reserve bank and that leading banks had reduced their prime lending rate to 4 per cent from 4 1/4 per cent.

The drop in the discount rate, accompanied by its logical sequence of a lower prime rate, has been among the credit-easing moves that financial quarters have predicted and urged for some time.

Utilities, tobaccos, distillers, chemicals, rubbers and radio-televsions were generally higher. Oils, nonferrous metals, farm implements, aircrafts and motors showed a lower tendency. Steels and rails were mixed.

Fractional gains were made by Liggett & Myers, Lorillard, U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Goodrich, Union Carbide, United Air Lines, National Distillers and U. S. Gypsum. Slight lower were Youngstown Sheet, Caterpillar, Boeing, Phelps Dodge, American Cyanamid and International Nickel.

U. S. government bonds improved.

buy heating "for keeps"!

HEATING IS BASIC
It is a major, lifetime investment for the security and comfort of the whole family. A mistake in equipment can be very costly... so select heating quality with care. It pays.

The one part of your gas-fired furnace that takes a terrific fire-beating is its very heart... its heat exchanger. (Note illustration on left.) In ordinary heating equipment its life expectancy may be very low indeed...

But your furnace's "heating heart" can last a lifetime with

Dura-tube

...the "armored heart" heat exchanger that is practically indestructible...found only in the gas-fired

deluxe Janitrol "Cruader"

★ PROOF OF DURABILITY: In nearly 1/4 million Janitrol Dura-tubes, in over 5 years, records show there have been no replacements.

BETTER THAN CAST-IRON; BETTER THAN STEEL: This process has been approved by American Gas Association for heat exchanger temperatures far beyond that allowed for either cast-iron or for steel!

One of the most important ways of measuring heating quality is its Durability. Dura-tube's actual replacement record of zero in 5 years and in nearly 1/4 million tubes, speaks volumes.

O'Neill Seeking To Avoid Special Assembly Session

By REED SMITH
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. C. William O'Neill and aides who served with him when he was attorney general are combing the law on appointments to avoid a special session of the Legislature. Atty. Gen. William Saxbe said he has urged the governor to call an extraordinary session to "clear the air" of doubts over appointments to three posts requiring confirmation by the Ohio Senate. The posts are director of highways and director of mental health and corrections, both of cabinet status, and Ohio State University trustee. State Auditor James A. Rhodes asked Saxbe to rule on the appointment questions. Rhodes said he acted to avoid possible court action against him for illegal payment of salaries and expenses. Saxbe indicated it may be some time before he issues his rulings despite reports that they are about ready. The governor declined comment until after he received the formal opinions. He said he had no present plans for a special session and expressed belief that things could be "worked out." Attorneys said statute provides that, if the posts in question are vacant during a legislative session, the governor must make appointments and send them "forthwith" to the Senate for confirmation. During the last session, O'Neill made Charles M. Noble, former New Jersey turnpike engineer, his secretary in charge of highways at $30,000 a year. Noble was ineligible for appointment as highway director because he had not lived in Ohio a full year to qualify as an elector. His year was up last Jan. 14. During that time, George J. Thormyer served as acting highway director. A suit pending in Franklin County Common Pleas Court challenges the right of Thormyer to fire a highway department employee unless he actually is the director. Rhodes asked Saxbe to say whether the governor, by failing to appoint a highway director during the legislative session, can now appoint Noble to that post or whether Thormyer actually holds it.

Also involved is the question of whether the Legislature legally can appropriate money to pay Noble's salary as highway secretary when no such job is provided by the law that prescribes gubernatorial appointments. A similar question is involved in the recent appointment of Dr. Robert A. Haines, former head of Longview State Hospital in Cincinnati, as state mental health director. Dr. Earl C. Albrecht served as acting director from 1956 until Haines took over. No appointment was sent to the Senate. The third post is held by Forest G. Ketter of Columbus as OSU trustee. He was appointed by former Gov. Frank J. Lausche but a special session of the Legislature in 1956 failed to confirm him. He was reappointed by O'Neill but failed to receive confirmation during the regular session.

Attorneys said a ruling by the attorney general in 1923 requires appointment of another person under such circumstances. Officials expressed belief that O'Neill wants to avoid a special session because of the flood of requests for enactment of special laws that usually accompanies such a call. Only the governor can call such a session and business must be restricted to matters he specifies. A special session would cost the state about $3,700 in mileage allowances for legislators. Officials speculated that the cost could be held to about $800 in allowances for senators only if House leaders agreed to a "skeleton" session requiring only the presence of officers in that chamber.

A special session might confront the administration with another difficulty. Officials raised the possibility of Senate failure to confirm Noble as highway director after defeat of a proposed change in the state constitution at the last election.

Alice Roosevelt Longworth Still Adding to Her Legend

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON (AP)—Alice Roosevelt Longworth began making headlines at 17, soon after the turn of the century, when her father Teddy Roosevelt became president and moved his large family into the White House. Seventy-four on Feb. 12, still nursing abiding convictions, still as independent as ever, she continues to add to her legend. A tall woman, impressive despite her out-moded clothes and big-brimmed hats that shade her remarkable gray-blue eyes, she is a familiar figure at widely contrasting events here—from prize fights and Senate hearings to elegant balls and the symphony. There was a long period, though, when she remained conspicuously out of things. That was during the administrations of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry Truman. When the Republicans came into power, she elatedly announced she was more than ready to bounce back into the social swim. Feeling very much at home at a recent White House tea, she whipped out her familiar long cigarette holder and lit up. She barely hid her chagrin when an aide reminded her that smoking in the Executive Mansion was forbidden. "Young man, I smoked my first cigarette in the White House years and years ago when I lived here," she reminded him tartly. Daughter of the former Alice Hathaway Lee, who died giving her birth three years after her marriage to Roosevelt, teen-age Alice added to the merry melée at the White House with her five half-brothers and sister. The parties were the gayest. The youngsters collected menageries, slid down bannisters, walked on stilts. Alice even picked a rare-blooming century plant. She made her debut in the White House and was married there, Feb. 17, 1906. She met her late husband, former Speaker of the House Nicholas Longworth, then a gay bachelor congressman from Ohio, when she accompanied the William Howard Taft Mission to the Orient. On shipboard she jumped fully clothed into the swimming pool. As "Princess Alice" she reigned supreme over capital society. A color, "Alice Blue," was named after her. She made her boldest headlines during the Hoover administration in the precedence battle with Dolly Gann, sister and official hostess of Vice President Charles Curtis. This was settled when the White House gave a special dinner for the vice president where Mrs. Gann was accorded first rank as honor guest. Currently, Mrs. Longworth is active in the 100th anniversary celebration of the birth of Theodore Roosevelt which began, Oct. 27, 1957 and ends in October this year. The fabulous TR was born Oct. 27, 1858. The Circleville Herald, Circleville, Ohio, Wed., Jan. 22, 1958 3 Burma, Indochina, Malaya and Thailand are bordering states in southeast Asia.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Can you tell me how to learn the whereabouts of a man separated from his wife, for many years? He is a veteran of the first war (1917). She knows his number, I think; or could secure it. She doesn't want him to know she is inquiring.

She has this problem: She has let it be thought that she is a widow, because for years she suffered from gossip and embarrassment as a separated wife. When her children began to suffer on this score, too, she moved to another town and assumed a widow's status.

Now the children are grown and the youngest is to be married soon. The mother is afraid to refer to the father as "the late" in case he is still alive. Then, too, he is vicious and would welcome a chance to hurt the family and so would his relatives. They are the kind the Bible describes as "lower than the beasts of the field." It is a tragic story; she alone has anything to lose, thus is vulnerable.

Can she learn whether he is still alive without his hearing of the inquiry? How can an announcement be made to cover the marital status without revealing anything? Largely, it is her children she wants to protect, as they've been given to understand and always have said that their father is dead.

She is afraid to go to local clergymen or politicians lest her confidence be betrayed, as has happened in the past. Her children all are past 20 but wouldn't be able to face scandal as bravely as the mother, who has covered the sin of her husband and protected the children. They would bitterly blame her.

G. P. Dear G.P.: The sensible way to handle the matter would be to avoid the grand gesture in making an announcement of the marriage through the newspapers.

You don't have to supply the whole rigmarole of the bride's recent ancestry. It is sufficient to say: "Mrs. John Doe of Sandy Gulch announces the marriage of her daughter Gwen Ann to Mr. Clay Pipe Smoke on Friday January 17 at the Church of the Angels. The Reverend Gadfrey Zooks officiated at the 11 a.m. ceremony. The bride was attended by her eldest sister and Mr. Tom Whatsis was best man."

You can put a period on the announcement at this point. Or you may add such details as: "After a honeymoon trip to the Moon mountains, the young couple will be at home at 602 Sunkist Drive, Gopher City. Mr. Smoke is a chemical engineer employed in executive capacity by the Genius Plastics Corporation there." Enough said.

If such straightforward information is supplied the press, together with your name, address and telephone number, it isn't likely that the news staff will double check and reward it. It tells the story, and is usable as is, unless the bride happens to belong to so-called top drawer society, in which case an effort might be made to build a bigger story of it.

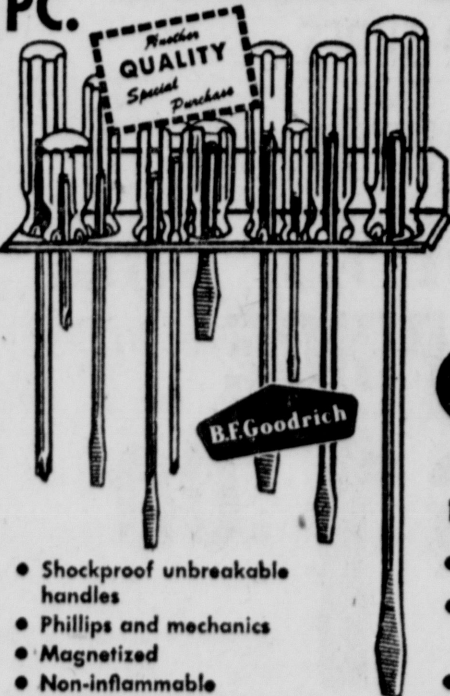

Even if the editor should telephone to ask about Mr. Doe, and to say it is standard practice in his shop to mention the father, dead or divorced, still Mrs. Doe has a right, within the framework of good manners, to insist graciously. "Please, we'd rather keep the announcement in the mother's name only, since she is the only parent the children remember." But if the editor also insists upon having his way, my advice is, let it pass. In that case, don't worry if the story refers to "the late Mr. Doe."

However, haven't I heard of legal procedure, whereby a missing person, who has been missing a consecutive number of years—seven or more—may be construed "legally dead"? This is to permit his nearest of kin to reconstruct their lives on the accredited theory that he no longer exists. I think this mother ought to investigate that possibility with good legal advisers. Is there a Legal Aid Bureau in your town? Or in the neighboring capital city?

She deserves to be set free of false shame and covering anxiety as regards her married status. And a heart-to-heart talk with a sensible clergyman would do a lot for her morale, I feel.

M. H. Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of this newspaper.

O'Neill Seeking To Avoid Special Assembly Session

By REED SMITH
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. C. William O'Neill and aides who served with him when he was attorney general are combing the law on appointments to avoid a special session of the Legislature.

Atty. Gen. William Saxbe said he has urged the governor to call an extraordinary session to "clear the air" of doubts over appointments to three posts requiring confirmation by the Ohio Senate.

The posts are director of highways and director of mental health and corrections, both of cabinet status, and Ohio State University trustee.

State Auditor James A. Rhodes asked Saxbe to rule on the appointment questions. Rhodes said he acted to avoid possible court action against him for illegal lay-out of salaries and expenses.

Saxbe indicated it may be some time before he issues his rulings despite reports that they are about ready. The governor declined comment until after he received the formal opinions. He said he had no present plans for a special session and expressed belief that things could be "worked out."

Attorneys said statute provides that, if the posts in question are vacant during a legislative session, the governor must make appointments and send them "forthwith" to the Senate for confirmation.

During the last session, O'Neill made Charles M. Noble, former New Jersey turnpike engineer, his secretary in charge of highways at $30,000 a year. Noble was ineligible for appointment as highway director because he had not lived in Ohio a full year to qualify as an elector. His year was up last Jan. 14.

During that time, George J. Thornmyer served as acting highway director. A suit pending in Franklin County Common Pleas Court challenges the right of Thornmyer to fire a highway department employee unless he actually is the director.

Rhodes asked Saxbe to say whether the governor, by failing to appoint a highway director during the legislative session, can now appoint Noble to that post or whether Thornmyer actually holds it.

Also involved is the question of whether the Legislature legally can appropriate money to pay Noble's salary as highway secretary when no such job is provided by the law that prescribes gubernatorial appointments.

A similar question is involved in the recent appointment of Dr. Robert A. Haines, former head of Longview State Hospital in Cincinnati, as state mental health director. Dr. Earl C. Albrecht served as acting director from 1956 until Haines took over. No appointment was sent to the Senate.

The third post is held by Forest G. Ketter of Columbus as OSU trustee. He was appointed by former Gov. Frank J. Lausche but a special session of the Legislature in 1956 failed to confirm him. He was reappointed by O'Neill but failed to receive confirmation during the regular session.

Attorneys said a ruling by the attorney general in 1953 requires appointment of another person under such circumstances.

Officials expressed belief that O'Neill wants to avoid a special session because of the flood of requests for enactment of special laws that usually accompanies such a call. Only the governor can call such a session and business must be restricted to matters he specifies.

A special session would cost the state about $3,700 in mileage allowances for legislators. Officials speculated that the cost could be held to about $800 in allowances for senators only if House leaders agreed to a "skeleton" session requiring only the presence of officers in that chamber.

A special session might confront the administration with another

Alice Roosevelt Longworth Still Adding to Her Legend

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Alice Roosevelt Longworth began making headlines at 17, soon after the turn of the century, when her father Teddy Roosevelt became president and moved his large family into the White House.

Seventy-four on Feb. 12, still nursing abiding convictions, still as independent as ever, she continues to add to her legend.

A tall woman, impressive despite her out-moded clothes and big-brimmed hats that shade her remarkable gray-blue eyes, she is a familiar figure at widely contrasting events here—from prize fights and Senate hearings to elegant balls and the symphony.

There was a long period, though, when she remained conspicuously out of things. That was during the administrations of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry Truman. When the Republicans came into power, she elatedly announced she was more than ready to bounce back into the social swim.

Feeling very much at home at a recent White House tea, she whipped out her familiar long cigarette holder and lit up. She barely hid her chagrin when an aide reminded her that smoking in the Executive Mansion was forbidden.

"Young man, I smoked my first cigarette in the White House years and years ago when I lived here," she reminded him tartly.

Daughter of the former Alice Hathaway Lee, who died giving her birth three years after her marriage to Roosevelt, teen-age Alice added to the merry melees at the White House with her five half-brothers and sister. The parties were the gayest. The youngsters collected menageries, slid down bannisters, walked on stilts. Alice even picked a rare-blooming century plant.

She made her debut in the White House and was married there, Feb. 17, 1906. She met her late husband, former Speaker of the House Nicholas Longworth, then a gay bachelor congressman from Ohio, when she accompanied the William Howard Taft Mission to the Orient. On shipboard she jumped fully clothed into the swimming pool.

As "Princess Alice" she reigned supreme over capital society. A color, "Alice Blue," was named after her. She made her boldest headlines during the Hoover administration in the precedence battle with Dolly Gann, sister and official hostess of Vice President Charles Curtis. This was settled when the White House gave a special dinner for the vice president

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Can you tell me how to learn the whereabouts of a man separated from his wife, for many years? He is a veteran of the first war (1917). She knows his number, I think; or could secure it. She doesn't want him to know she is inquiring.

She has this problem: She has let it be thought that she is a widow, because for years she suffered from gossip and embarrassment as a separated wife. When her children began to suffer on this score, too, she moved to another town and assumed a widow's status.

Now the children are grown and the youngest is to be married soon. The mother is afraid to refer to the father as "the late" in case he is still alive. Then, too, he is vicious and would welcome a chance to hurt the family and so would his relatives. They are the kind the Bible describes as "lower than the beasts of the field." It is a tragic story; she alone has anything to lose, thus is vulnerable.

Can she learn whether he is still alive without his hearing of the inquiry? How can an announcement be made to cover the marital status without revealing anything? Largely, it is her children she wants to protect, as they've been given to understand and always have said that their father is dead.

uary 17 at the Church of the Angels. The Reverend Gadfrey Zooks officiated at the 11 a.m. ceremony. The bride was attended by her eldest sister and Mr. Tom Whatsis was best man.

You can put a period on the announcement at this point. Or you may add such details as: "After a honeymoon trip to the Moon mountains, the young couple will be at home at 602 Sunkist Drive, Gopher City. Mr. Smoke is a chemical engineer employed in executive capacity by the Genius Plastics Corporation there." Enough said.

If such straightforward information is supplied the press, together with your name, address and telephone number, it isn't likely that the news staff will double check and reward it. It tells the story, and is usable as is, unless the bride happens to belong to so-called top drawer society, in which case an effort might be made to build a bigger story of it.

Even if the editor should telephone to ask about Mr. Doe, and to say it is standard practice in his shop to mention the father, dead or divorced, still Mrs. Doe has a right, within the framework of good manners, to insist graciously, "Please, we'd rather keep the announcement in the mother's name only, since she is the only parent the children remember." But if the editor also insists upon having his way, my advice is, let it pass. In that case, don't worry if the story refers to "the late Mr. Doe."

However, haven't I heard of legal procedure, whereby a missing person, who has been missing a consecutive number of years—seven or more—may be construed "legally dead"? This is to permit his nearest of kin to reconstruct their lives on the accredited theory that he no longer exists. I think this mother ought to investigate that possibility with good legal advisers. Is there a Legal Aid Bureau in your town? Or in the neighboring capital city?

She deserves to be set free of false shame and covering anxiety as regards her married status. And a heart-to-heart talk with a sensible clergyman would do a lot for her morale, I feel.

Okinawa, Malta Problems

Uncle Sam is having one type of trouble with an island "possession" and John Bull is having the opposite with one of his island territories.

The island of Okinawa has given a sharp slap to its occupier, the United States. Its capital city of Naha has elected a communist-backed mayor. Saichi Kaneshi ran on a platform demanding an immediate ouster of U. S. forces—a proposal that garnered more votes than those of his opponents, all of whom were anti-American. He did not spell out how he is going to oust U. S. military might.

The reason seems to be that Okinawans are riled at still being under occupation forces 12 years after the war, at the American Army bureaucracy which runs the island, and at interference by U. S. officials in local politics. Despite the millions America is pouring into their economy, Okinawans feel strongly enough about these grievances to vote the anti-American ticket.

The situation is quite the reverse on the British possession of Malta. That Mediterranean island has for several years tried to be integrated completely into the far-away British isles.

But recently 40 workmen were laid off at the Valetta Naval Base, the chief prop to the Maltese economy. The Maltese prime minister, Dom Mintoff, raised a great cry that the British were trying to "sink" Malta. Furthermore, he declared, Malta isn't going to join Britain unless granted unending full employment—something the welfare state of Britain hasn't even promised its own people.

The British government, never too enthusiastic for Maltese integration anyway, is considerably taken aback by this upstart conduct.

Which shows that the ways of the occupier are never easy.

Great Leader's Spirit Lives On

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—A great leader never quite dies altogether. He lives in a spirit he kindled among those who followed him.

So it is that, in a very real way, William Orlando Darby, founder of the American Rangers in World War II, is still very much alive, although he died two days before that war closed.

"Even after all these years we can't think of him as dead," said Charles Contrera, who served as driver-interpreter for the brilliant young West Pointer from Fort Smith, Ark., whose career was ended at 34 by a German artillery shell on the Italian front.

"To us he was almost like a god. To the men he seemed superhuman. He was wounded three times, but we never really believed he could be killed—he had been through so much."

Hollywood recently "discovered" Col. Darby, an officer many believed was destined to be Army chief of staff, and Warner Brothers has told part of his story in a notable film of battle action called "Darby's Rangers."

Contrera was one of a number of former Rangers who attended a preview of the picture here the other night. Now 38, he rarely fights the war anymore—"except sometimes at night in his sleep," said his wife.

Charlie was one of the first to volunteer when Darby was given the assignment of creating an elite spearhead force for the Army, a force comparable to the U. S. Marines, but smaller.

Contrera landed with the Rangers in Africa, but it wasn't until after the group had stormed the beaches of Sicily that he came to know Darby well.

"He wanted a driver who could also act as an interpreter," Contrera recalled, "and when I told him I could speak a couple of Italian dialects he said, 'Get behind the wheel. Let's go.'"

"The Colonel liked to do his own reconnoitering for his night attacks. When we couldn't go any further by jeep, we'd climb aboard donkeys. And when we got to places in the hills where even the donkeys balked, we'd jump off and go on by foot."

Contrera remembers later in Italy how, day after day, he had to speed his jeep across a 75-yard open area of road swept by machinegun fire.

"The Colonel got a kick out of timing the enemy fire and beating it," he said. "We could see the bullets kicking up dust behind us, but nothing ever bothered him. And, somehow, I felt safe with him."

Only one time did Darby ever lose his composure. That was at Cisterna, on the Anzio beachhead, when a German division surrounded and largely destroyed two battalions of Rangers as he was trying to break through to their rescue.

"Don't give up. Infiltrate back," Darby kept pleading into the field phone. "Don't give up! Don't give up! Don't give up!"

"When he was told the men couldn't infiltrate back because they were trapped," said Contrera, "the Colonel put his head down on his arm and cried."

The last time Contrera ever saw Darby was when the Colonel came to Camp Butler in North Carolina.

"He never made a speech to us, just talked to us one by one, or in small groups. He was very sad."

After 11 months on the Army general staff in Washington, Darby returned to the Italian front as deputy commander of the 10th Mountain Division. A German shell killed him soon after, as he was inspecting frontline positions.

Daring Man, Tired of Life

By George Sokolsky

A draft-dodger is a fellow who breaks the law willfully, and often because he fears to fulfill the law. He is afraid of death. There have been conscientious objectors who declined to kill but who undertook the bravest services at the front, who displayed courage and patriotism of a high quality.

Here comes a letter from a reader who pronounced himself to be a draft-dodger and is proud of it. He says:

"In the first place, the 'increasing' number of draft-dodgers is not appalling, it is most heartening, especially to one in that younger generation which has been so justly accused by the pre-Roosevelt generation as having no guts."

He says that he has guts, as he calls it. He says that there is an increasing number of Americans "including myself" who are not convinced that a duty to serve one's country necessarily implies a duty to serve one's government."

Truly I cannot understand what he is talking about. There can be no distinction in the United States between the people and the government. Our government is not imposed upon us from outside. It is not hereditary. It is chosen at short intervals by the people of the United States who vote in free, secret elections and choose representative officials in accordance with the Constitution. All acts of government arise from legislation in Congress, both Houses of which are chosen by the people. Therefore the government and people are one as is stipulated in the Constitution which begins with the words, "We the people of the United States..."

My correspondent writes to me:

"In voluntarily foregoing a sheltered existence in a glorified boy's camp, I have been forced to hit the road to escape imprisonment; drifting from one skid-road to another, and living that hand-to-mouth existence which, besides death, is the only existence open to those who have not, or dare not use, the unicorn, the Social-Security number and the other credentials of regimented living."

This sounds very good but what does it prove? My memory goes back to World War I when many Americans were pro-German and were unwilling to go to war in a cause which they believed to be unjust. Many organized themselves into societies to keep this country out of war, but some of them discovered that the societies were actually being managed by persons in the Kaiser's employ. They discovered that instead of pursuing their consciences freely, they had been tricked into treason. There was less of that during World War II.

I cannot imagine why this correspondent needed to land on skid-road unless he preferred to. He might have found a life in some beneficial activity as other conscientious objectors have done. This may be one isolated instance of bad judgment, or is it? Can we fight a totally disciplined nation with even a small part of our citizenship thinking as illogically as this correspondent who is not only literate but educated? But what could have produced this in any American mind?

"But sometimes when I'm broke and hungry, when I'm cold and wet, I wonder if perhaps, in choosing a precarious freedom to an expedient slavery, I have made a mistake. I wonder if I shouldn't have made more of an effort to understand my government: if I shouldn't have rid my mind of Locke, Rousseau, Mill, and the U. S. constitution and filled it instead with Marx, Lenin, Mrs. Roosevelt, and the U. N."

"But then I remember the poor saps I have seen, and the poor saps all over the world, who have sold their souls for that gold-plated lemon 'security,' and I wonder then if the sheer joy of just being alive, being a man, being free, is experienced by them as it is by me. I wonder if the sun, the moon, the wind, the rain, the cold, and even the hunger carry the same message from God to them as they do to me..."

This year, I have played upon every instrument to arouse your interest in education, in schools, in teachers. Nobody can read this letter, from which I have quoted so voluminously without wondering what made this obviously well-read man so antagonistic to his own world. He is neither a Thoreau nor an Emma Goldman. He is only tired—horribly tired of life itself.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A BUSY BEAVER bank clerk, keenly aware of old Mrs. Gottplenty's million-dollar balance, began giving her the red-carpet treatment. He even took her six nasty-tempered, untrained dogs out for their constitutional every morning and evening. As he had hoped, Mrs. Gottplenty remembered the bank clerk in her will. She left him the dogs.

A persuasive insurance broker thought a neighbor's massive ferocious looking dog was a good reason for the neighbor to take out a fat policy. His powers of persuasion carried the day—and not a moment too soon—for the neighbor, anyhow. The policy had barely been signed when the dog made a leap for the insurance broker and bit him.

Ward Off Flu; Keep Clean

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

The simple practice of washing your hands frequently may not be as effective a weapon against Asian flu as the new vaccine, but it does offer considerable protection.

Authorities say there are chances of Asian flu outbreaks of epidemic proportions in various sections of the country during the winter months.

Unfortunately, there isn't enough vaccine to go around. Still, if you can't get it, there are several precautions you can take to safeguard your family and yourself.

You should develop the practice of washing your hands frequently. Among other things, it may save you a bout with the Asian flu virus. Keeping your entire body clean and your clothes both clean and fresh is a standard rule for good health. It becomes especially important, however, when the flu virus is lurking about.

And of course you should follow the age-old advice to keep your body's natural resistance in good shape by eating regular and well-balanced meals and getting enough rest—about eight hours a day.

Just in case you aren't familiar with the symptoms of Asian flu, I think I had better list them here. Actually, they are the same as those other types of flu: muscular aches and pains, fever, chills, a dry hacking cough and a sore throat.

Generally, the fever will last between one and five days. Quite often it will leave the patient weak and exhausted.

If you feel any of these symptoms, go to bed promptly. I can't overemphasize the importance of this. Even if your symptoms turn into nothing more than a common cold, the rest in bed will help you get back to your customary routine much faster.

If your fever begins to soar, you must contact your doctor right away. It may mean that something more serious than the flu is bothering you.

Remain in bed until your doctor says it is all right to get up. Asian flu or any other type of flu is spread by persons who have the disease. You owe it to your fellow human beings to remain home and take care of yourself. You are a threat to your entire community if you run around spreading the virus to others.

Answer: Intussusception is a condition in which one portion of the intestines is telescoped into another portion. This may cause an obstruction to the normal flow of the intestines, causing what is known as a bowel obstruction, with serious symptoms.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower made a shambles of his plea—wistful, maybe, but not realistic—to keep politics out of the defense problem.

In view of what he knew his right-hand man Sherman Adams was saying at almost the same moment, it's hard to see how Eisenhower could have made the plea at all. Adams played politics with defense as hard as he could.

Only if they were living in a dream world could the politicians of the Democratic and Republican parties be expected to refrain from making political capital out of the defense issue at each other's expense.

The reason is simple: the nation's whole interest is centered on defense, not only in talking and wondering about how it can be made better but why it isn't better. There's ammunition for both political parties in this one.

Neither the Truman nor Eisenhower administrations made the all-out drive on missile development that the nation now realizes should have been made.

Eisenhower said in a speech at a Republican rally in Chicago Monday night: "Our first objective — security and a just peace — is not a partisan or political matter. Americans must never let the issue of security and peace become a pawn in anyone's political chess game."

But Eisenhower's press secretary James C. Hagerty disclosed that before his boss left for Chicago Monday he knew what Presidential Asst. Adams was going to say in Minneapolis Monday night about the time Eisenhower was talking. Hagerty said Adams also knew what Eisenhower was going to say.

What Adams said was plenty. He accused the Democrats not only of not spending enough money on missile development during the Truman administration but of lacking defense strength at the time of the Korean War. And more of the same.

That was not all. Adams in Minneapolis, like Eisenhower in Chicago, was addressing a Republican dinner. But other big-wheel Republicans were addressing other Republican dinners elsewhere around the country.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks in Tulsa, Okla., called the Democrats hypocrites for attacking — as they have done — the Eisenhower administration's defense record.

At Des Moines, Iowa, Secretary of the Interior Seaton blamed the Democrats for chopping over 2½ billion dollars from Eisenhower's defense budget in 1957.

Democrats — who will face the Republicans in the 1958 congress-sional elections — have heaped blame on the Eisenhower administration for the failure of this country to be ahead of the Russians in missiles.

And it's a pretty certain bet politicians of both parties will be heaping blame on one another at least until next November.

Last Nov. 16 the Democratic Advisory Council shoved a harpoon into the Eisenhower administration with this charge: "This is no time for complacent reassurances on the state of our defenses. We have had too many reassurances on our military strength in the past five years—reassurances which are now shown not to have been justified by the facts."

The island of Okinawa has given a sharp slap to its occupier, the United States. Its capital city of Naha has elected a communist-backed mayor. Saichi Kaneshi ran on a platform demanding an immediate ouster of U. S. forces—a proposal that garnered more votes than those of his opponents, all of whom were anti-American. He did not spell out how he is going to oust U. S. military might.

The reason seems to be that Okinawans are riled at still being under occupation forces 12 years after the war, at the American Army bureaucracy which runs the island, and at interference by U. S. officials in local politics. Despite the millions America is pouring into their economy, Okinawans feel strongly enough about these grievances to vote the anti-American ticket.

The situation is quite the reverse on the British possession of Malta. That Mediterranean island has for several years tried to be integrated completely into the far-away British isles.

But recently 40 workmen were laid off at the Valetta Naval Base, the chief prop to the Maltese economy. The Maltese prime minister, Dom Mintoff, raised a great cry that the British were trying to "sink" Malta. Furthermore, he declared, Malta isn't going to join Britain unless granted unending full employment—something the welfare state of Britain hasn't even promised its own people.

The British government, never too enthusiastic for Maltese integration anyway, is considerably taken aback by this upstart conduct.

Which shows that the ways of the occupier are never easy.

Great Leader's Spirit Lives On

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—A great leader never quite dies altogether. He lives in a spirit he kindled among those who followed him. So it is that, in a very real way, William Orlando Darby, founder of the American Rangers in World War II, is still very much alive, although he died two days before that war closed.

"Even after all these years we can't think of him as dead," said Charles Contrera, who served as driver-interpreter for the brilliant young West Pointer from Fort Smith, Ark., whose career was ended at 34 by a German artillery shell on the Italian front.

"To us he was almost like a god. To the men he seemed superhuman. He was wounded three times, but we never really believed he could be killed—he had been through so much."

Hollywood recently "discovered" Col. Darby, an officer many believed was destined to be Army chief of staff, and Warner Brothers has told part of his story in a notable film of battle action called "Darby's Rangers."

Contrera was one of a number of former Rangers who attended a preview of the picture here the other night. Now 38, he rarely fights the war anymore—"except sometimes at night in his sleep," said his wife.

Charles was one of the first to volunteer when Darby was given the assignment of creating an elite spearhead force for the Army, a force comparable to the U. S. Marines, but smaller.

Contrera landed with the Rangers in Africa, but it wasn't until after the group had stormed the beaches of Sicily that he came to know Darby well.

"He wanted a driver who could also act as an interpreter," Contrera recalled, "and when I told him I could speak a couple of Italian dialects he said, 'Get behind the wheel. Let's go.'"

"The Colonel liked to do his own reconnoitering for his night attacks. When we couldn't go any further by jeep, we'd climb aboard donkeys. And when we got to places in the hills where even the donkeys balked, we'd jump off and go on by foot."

Contrera remembers later in Italy how, day after day, he had to speed his jeep across a 75-yard open area of road swept by machinegun fire.

"The Colonel got a kick out of timing the enemy fire and beating it," he said. "We could see the bullets kicking up dust behind us, but nothing ever bothered him. And, somehow, I felt safe with him."

Only one time did Darby ever lose his composure. That was at Cisterna, on the Anzio beachhead, when a German division surrounded and largely destroyed two battalions of Rangers as he was trying to break through to their rescue.

"Don't give up. Infiltrate back," Darby kept pleading into the field phone. "Don't give up! Don't give up! Don't give up!"

"When he was told the men couldn't infiltrate back because they were trapped," said Contrera, "the Colonel put his head down on his arm and cried."

The last time Contrera ever saw Darby was when the Colonel came to Camp Butler in North Carolina.

"He never made a speech to us, just talked to us one by one, or in small groups. He was very sad."

After 11 months on the Army general staff in Washington, Darby returned to the Italian front as deputy commander of the 10th Mountain Division. A German shell killed him soon after, as he was inspecting frontline positions.

Daring Man, Tired of Life

By George Sokolsky

A draft-dodger is a fellow who breaks the law willfully, and often because he fears to fulfill the law. He is afraid of death. There have been conscientious objectors who declined to kill but who undertook the bravest services at the front, who displayed courage and patriotism of a high quality.

Here comes a letter from a reader who pronounced himself to be a draft-dodger and is proud of it. He says:

"In the first place, the 'increasing' number of draft-dodgers is not appalling, it is most heartening, especially to one in that younger generation which has been so justly accused by the pre-Roosevelt generation as having no guts."

He says that he has guts, as he calls it. He says that there is an increasing number of Americans "including myself" who are not convinced that a duty to serve one's country necessarily implies a duty to serve one's government.

Truly I cannot understand what he is talking about. There can be no distinction in the United States between the people and the government. Our government is not imposed upon us from outside. It is not hereditary. It is chosen at short intervals by the people of the United States who vote in free, secret elections and choose representative officials in accordance with the Constitution. All acts of government arise from legislation in Congress, both Houses of which are chosen by the people. Therefore the government and people are one as is stipulated in the Constitution which begins with the words, "We the people of the United States..."

My correspondent writes to me:

"In voluntarily foregoing a sheltered existence in a glorified boy's camp, I have been forced to hit the road to escape imprisonment; drifting from one skid-road to another, and living that hand-to-mouth existence which, besides death, is the only existence open to those who have not, or dare not use, the unicorn, the Social-Security number and the other credentials of registered living."

This sounds very good but what does it prove? My memory goes back to World War I when many Americans were pro-German and were unwilling to go to war in a cause which they believed to be unjust. Many organized themselves into societies to keep this country out of war, but some of them discovered that the societies were actually being managed by persons in the Kaiser's employ. They discovered that instead of pursuing their consciences freely, they had been tricked into treason. There was less of that during World War II.

I cannot imagine why this correspondent needed to land on skid-road unless he preferred to. He might have found a life in some beneficial activity as other conscientious objectors have done. This may be one isolated instance of bad judgment, or is it? Can we fight a totally disciplined nation with even a small part of our citizenship thinking as illogically as this correspondent who is not only literate but educated? But what could have produced this in any American mind?

"But sometimes when I'm broke and hungry, when I'm cold and wet, I wonder if perhaps, in choosing a precarious freedom to an expedient slavery, I have made a mistake. I wonder if I shouldn't have made more of an effort to understand my government; if I shouldn't have rid my mind of Locke, Rousseau, Mill, and the U. S. Constitution and filled it instead with Marx, Lenin, Mrs. Roosevelt, and the U. N.

"But then I remember the poor saps I have seen, and the poor saps all over the world, who have sold their souls for that gold-plated lemon 'security,' and I wonder then if the sheer joy of just being alive, being a man, being free, is experienced by them as it is by me. I wonder if the sun, the moon, the wind, the rain, the cold, and even the hunger carry the same message from God to them as they do to me..."

This year, I have played upon every instrument to arouse your interest in education, in schools, in teachers. Nobody can read this letter, from which I have quoted so voluminously without wondering what made this obviously well-read man so antagonistic to his own world. He is neither a Thoreau nor an Emma Goldman. He is only tired—horribly tired of life itself.

Try and Stop Me

A BUSY BEAVER bank clerk, keenly aware of old Mrs. Gottplenty's million-dollar balance, began giving her the red-carpet treatment. He even took her ~~mx~~ nasty-tempered, untrained dogs out for their constitutional every morning and evening. As he had hoped, Mrs. Gottplenty remembered the bank clerk in her will. She left him the dogs.

A persuasive insurance broker thought a neighbor's massive ferocious looking dog was a good reason for the neighbor to take out a fat policy. His powers of persuasion carried the day—and not a moment too soon—for the neighbor, anyhow. The policy had barely been signed when the dog made a leap for the insurance broker and bit him.

Ward Off Flu; Keep Clean

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

The simple practice of washing your hands frequently may not be as effective a weapon against Asian flu as the new vaccine, but it does offer considerable protection.

Authorities say there are chances of Asian flu outbreaks of epidemic proportions in various sections of the country during the winter months.

Unfortunately, there isn't enough vaccine to go around. Still, if you can't get it, there are several precautions you can take to safeguard your family and yourself.

You should develop the practice of washing your hands frequently. Among other things, it may save you a bout with the Asian flu virus. Keeping your entire body clean and your clothes both clean and fresh is a standard rule for good health. It becomes especially important, however, when the flu virus is lurking about.

And of course you should follow the age-old advice to keep your body's natural resistance in good shape by eating regular and well-balanced meals and getting enough rest—about eight hours a day.

Just in case you aren't familiar with the symptoms of Asian flu, I think I had better list them here. Actually, they are the same as those other types of flu: muscular aches and pains, fever, chills, a dry hacking cough and a sore throat.

Generally, the fever will last between one and five days. Quite often it will leave the patient weak and exhausted.

If you feel any of these symptoms, go to bed promptly. I can't overemphasize the importance of this. Even if your symptoms turn out to be nothing more than a common cold, the rest in bed will help you get back to your customary routine much faster.

If your fever begins to soar, you must contact your doctor right away. It may mean that something more serious than the flu is bothering you.

Remain in bed until your doctor says it is all right to get up. Asian flu or any other type of flu is spread by persons who have the disease. You owe it to your fellow human beings to remain home and take care of yourself. You are a threat to your entire community if you run around spreading the virus to others.

Answer: Intussusception is a condition in which one portion of the intestines is telescoped into another portion. This may cause an obstruction to the normal flow of the intestines, causing what is known as a bowel obstruction, with serious symptoms.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower made a shambles of his plea—wistful, maybe, but not realistic—to keep politics out of the defense problem.

In view of what he knew his right-hand man Sherman Adams was saying at almost the same moment, it's hard to see how Eisenhower could have made the plea at all. Adams played politics with defense as hard as he could.

Only if they were living in a dream world could the politicians of the Democratic and Republican parties be expected to refrain from making political capital out of the defense issue at each other's expense.

The reason is simple: the nation's whole interest is centered on defense, not only in talking and wondering about how it can be made better but why it isn't better. There's ammunition for both political parties in this one.

Neither the Truman nor Eisenhower administrations made the all-out drive on missile development that the nation now realizes should have been made.

Eisenhower said in a speech at a Republican rally in Chicago Monday night: "Our first objective — security and a just peace — is not a partisan or political matter. Americans must never let the issue of security and peace become a pawn in anyone's political chess game."

But Eisenhower's press secretary James C. Hagerty disclosed that before his boss left for Chicago Monday he knew what Presidential Asst. Adams was going to say in Minneapolis Monday night about the time Eisenhower was talking. Hagerty said Adams also knew what Eisenhower was going to say.

What Adams said was plenty. He accused the Democrats not only of not spending enough money on missile development during the Truman administration but of lacking defense strength at the time of the Korean War. And more of the same.

That was not all. Adams in Minneapolis, like Eisenhower in Chicago, was addressing a Republican dinner. But other big-wheel Republicans were addressing other Republican dinners elsewhere around the country.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks in Tulsa, Okla., called the Democrats hypocrites for attacking — as they have done — the Eisenhower administration's defense record.

At Des Moines, Iowa, Secretary of the Interior Seaton blamed the Democrats for chopping over 2½ billion dollars from Eisenhower's defense budget in 1957.

Democrats — who will face the Republicans in the 1958 congress-sional elections — have heaped blame on the Eisenhower administration for the failure of this country to be ahead of the Russians in missiles.

And it's a pretty certain bet politicians of both parties will be heaping blame on one another at least until next November.

Last Nov. 16 the Democratic Advisory Council shoved a harpoon into the Eisenhower administration with this charge: "This is no time for complacent reassurances on the state of our defenses. We have had too many reassurances on our military strength in the past five years—reassurances which are now shown not to have been justified by the facts."

Protein Family Is Important to Body

Have you had your Aminos today? This may soon be one question regularly discussed "over the coffee."

The Protein family of Aminos include 10 essential members, the names of which could make interesting conversation any time! If you've not officially met the Aminos, they are: arginine, histidine, isoleucine, leucine, lysine, methionine, phenylalanine, threonine, tryptophane, and valine.

Not too long ago, it was popular to blame illness on "something I ate." Today we know that nutrition research has proved that you can become ill because of something you did not eat—even something you did not eat 10 years ago!

That something could well be the right proportions of those Aminos. It is necessary that all 10 essential members are present in the right proportions in the foods eaten at each meal if the body receives full benefit of the proteins consumed.

NUTRITION studies have proved that protein foods are among the most digestible—the most essential—of all foods. They are sources of necessary vitamins and minerals. Their amino acids are the "building blocks" of protein from which our bodies are made and maintained. The vital importance of proteins in human life is indicated by the meaning of the word. It stems from the Greek "proteios" meaning "primary—holding first place."

The complete protein story is the most vivid one concerning the chemistry of foods.

The food group which includes high quality proteins containing the essential amino acids in about the right proportions includes: milk, meat, fish, eggs, poultry, and cheese.

Liver heads the list for a full measure of the Aminos as well as an abundance of other essential nutrients. Liver has greater nutritive power than any other "inner cut" of the animal kingdom and contains as much protein as regular cuts of meat and more minerals.

All liver is high in iron content and is an excellent source of vitamin AA and riboflavin. Pork liver is the best buy—for economy and nutrition. Even though it has the most pronounced liver flavor, it contains the highest percentage of iron of any liver and is especially high in thiamine.

Economy plus nutrition is an excellent reason for eating liver now or anytime.

FARM

The Circleville Herald, Wed., Jan. 22, 1958 5
Circleville, Ohio

Pickaway County Farmers Should Evaluate Programs

This time of year calls for the beginning of a new year's operation for most farmers. This presents a good time for farmers to take the first step in making profitable adjustments in business by taking a good look at their present program.

What are its weak spots? What inputs are being made that aren't paying off? In the light of costs and anticipated prices, what changes are needed?

Although the size of the farm, its soil quality, the weather and market outlets place restrictions on the earning power of the farm, the farmer's ability as a manager is an important factor in how well he does. One good way to find his weakness is for a farmer to keep records on his business and to compare them with selected standards of accomplishments.

The Agriculture Extension Service has available a very acceptable farm account book that farmers may secure. At the end of this year all users of this account book will be invited to participate in sessions for summarization of records and check for efficiency of each farmer's individual situation.

THE following is a good check sheet to indicate some of the weak points a farmer should look for in his business.

Do your crops fit the farm, is erosion under control, are you maintaining or increasing soil fertility, are your yields above those of similar farms in the neighborhood, have you checked your fertilization rates, is your drainage adequate and have you had a recent soil test?

Does your livestock fit the farm, can you keep up with the livestock work, would more livestock increase your net income, are your enterprises of an efficient size, are your feed costs in line with good standards, do you produce high quality products?

Do you select and use machinery efficiently, are your buildings adequate, do you use labor efficiently, do you need more capital and do you market your products efficiently?

There is no substitute for good records in a farming operation. All farmers interested in developing a better record system should contact their County Agriculture Agent.

Erie Railroad Aide Cites Rate Needs

COLUMBUS (AP)—The research chief of the Erie Railroad has told the Utilities Commission railroads hauling freight in Ohio need a rate increase to meet rising costs.

Eugene S. Root of Cleveland said 1957 income of the railroads was "disappointing." He said the net operating income will approximate $280 million, a return on net investment of 3.4 per cent.

"There have been lower rates in only two years in the past decade, the recession years of 1949 and 1954," Root said.

Veteran Police Chief Keeps Job in Sabina

SABINA (AP)—Robert Morris is still police chief of this village, although in the last few weeks his position has been in doubt.

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Civil Service Commission Tuesday upheld the removal of Hiram Rhoades as maintenance superintendent for the Ohio Department of Highways in Darke County. He had been cited for political activity by acting Highway Director George Thornmyer.

Defendant Collapses; Death Trial Delayed

CANTON (AP)—Because of the collapse of the 70-year-old defendant, a first-degree murder trial has been interrupted.

The defendant, Sam Smegadis of Canton, is recovering in Mercy Hospital after collapsing of coronary insufficiency. The trial is to resume Thursday.

Smegadis is charged with fatally shooting Nick Kinos, 71, last May 28. Police said the shooting in a coffee house stemmed from a feud between the two.

Dover School Chief Resigns Position

DOVER (AP)—D. C. Lemmon has resigned as superintendent of Dover public schools, a post he has held for 11 years.

Lemmon, 52, had been in the city school system here for 30 years and was high school principal for 11 years prior to becoming superintendent.

One reason for his resignation, Lemmon said, was voters' rejection for a second time last November of a construction bond issue. He said he had offers from "several other" school systems.

IF YOU are one of those who has not let liver help you live, give this two part program a fair trial: First—look through menu lists and recipe books for appetizing and different ways to prepare and serve amnos by liver. Second—make a special effort right soon, to pause at the liver section of the meat counter. Compare the prices and the total food values.

Choose liver with a fresh plump appearance and deep red to reddish brown color. One pound will yield 4 to 5 servings. Liver and other variety meats are more perishable than most other meats—so be sure to use them soon after purchase.

Protein is one of the main ingredients of health and beauty. Now that the amino situation has been surveyed let's remember that even valuable proteins need other types of food for harmonious accompaniment. After you buy the liver, purchase items from the currently plentiful list such as apples, broccoli, and canned corn. There were an estimated 117,306,000 bushels of apples produced in the United States in 1957. Ohio's share was 2,850,000 bushels. Delicious, rosy beauty, stayman and winesap apples are in good supply, flavor and color.

Cattle Feeders Plan Meeting On January 30

A chain store representative, a congressman, a business analyst and a college professor will speak to Ohio cattle feeders at the annual meeting January 30 in the Southern Hotel in Columbus, according to George Hamrick county agricultural agent.

W. E. Fitzgibbon, Cincinnati, meat merchandiser for a chain store, and William R. Poage, Congressman from Waco, Tex., and a member of the House Agricultural Committee, will appear on the morning program. Fitzgibbon will speak on "The Retailer Looks at Future Beef Merchandising and Sales" and Poage will give a progress report on beef promotion legislation.

Other features of morning sessions include an address by Robert C. Haigler of Bloomingburg, president of the association, and committee reports.

T. J. Obal, business analyst of Dearborn, Mich., will speak in the afternoon on "The Business Climate in Commerce and Industry", and C. C. Culbertson of the Department of Animal Husbandry of Iowa State College, will discuss the value of high moisture corn in cattle feeding.

George R. Johnson, chairman of the Department of Animal Science at Ohio State, will serve as toastmaster for a banquet scheduled to start at 6 p. m.

FARM

The Circleville Herald, Wed., Jan. 22, 1958 5

Pickaway County Farmers Should Evaluate Programs

This time of year calls for the beginning of a new year's operation for most farmers. This presents a good time for farmers to take the first step in making profitable adjustments in business by taking a good look at their present program.

What are its weak spots? What inputs are being made that aren't paying off? In the light of costs and anticipated prices, what changes are needed?

Although the size of the farm, its soil quality, the weather and market outlets place restrictions on the earning power of the farm, the farmer's ability as a manager is an important factor in how well he does. One good way to find his weakness is for a farmer to keep records on his business and to compare them with selected standards of accomplishments.

The Agriculture Extension Service has available a very acceptable farm account book that farmers may secure. At the end of this year all users of this account book will be invited to participate in sessions for summarization of records.

Erie Railroad Aide Cites Rate Needs

COLUMBUS (AP)—The research chief of the Erie Railroad has told the Utilities Commission railroads hauling freight in Ohio need a rate increase to meet rising costs.

Eugene S. Root of Cleveland said 1957 income of the railroads was "disappointing." He said the net operating income will approximate $280 million, a return on net investment of 3.4 per cent.

"There have been lower rates in only two years in the past decade, the recession years of 1949 and 1954," Root said.

ords and check for efficiency of each farmer's individual situation.

THE following is a good check sheet to indicate some of the weak points a farmer should look for in his business.

Do your crops fit the farm, is erosion under control, are you maintaining or increasing soil fertility, are your yields above those of similar farms in the neighborhood, have you checked your fertilization rates, is your drainage adequate and have you had a recent soil test?

Does your livestock fit the farm, can you keep up with the livestock work, would more livestock increase your net income, are your enterprises of an efficient size, are your feed costs in line with good standards, do you produce high quality products?

Do you select and use machinery efficiently, are your buildings adequate, do you use labor efficiently, do you need more capital and do you market your products efficiently?

There is no substitute for good records in a farming operation. All farmers interested in developing a better record system should contact their County Agriculture Agent.

Veteran Police Chief Keeps Job in Sabina

SABINA (AP)—Robert Morris is still police chief of this village, although in the last few weeks his position has been in doubt.

Morris, who returned from a two-week vacation Tuesday, had been fired by Mayor Harold W. Hill. The mayor also named a successor, E. T. Haines, but Village Solicitor K. O. Stone announced Hill had no power to oust the chief and the village council said Morris still had his job.

Pickaway County ASC Office Announces 1958 Ag Program

Darke County Road Aide's Firing OK'd

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Civil Service Commission Tuesday upheld the removal of Hiram Rhoades as maintenance superintendent for the Ohio Department of Highways in Darke County. He had been cited for political activity by acting Highway Director George Thormyer.

Rhoades was removed from his $460-a-month job last Aug. 22. He was accused of soliciting state highway department employees for campaign funds for the Democratic party before the November, 1956, general election.

Waterways; C-4—Standard Terraces; C-5—Diversions; C-6—Gully Prevention; C-7—Structure For Protecting Outlets And Water Channels; C-9—Open Drainage System; C-10—Tiling; D-1—Temporary Winter Cover; D-2—Temporary Summer Cover; D-3—Green Manure.

Any farmer in the county who wishes to participate in any of the above practices should first come into the office and make a request and receive an approval from the county committee before starting the practice.

All practices using lime require a soil test. Farmers wanting a test can make a request in the county office and a representative will be sent out to take the sample.

It would be wise to make a request from six to eight weeks before planning to start the practice in order to allow time for a soil sample to be taken.

The defendant, Sam Smegadis of Canton, is recovering in Mercy Hospital after collapsing of coronary insufficiency. The trial is to resume Thursday.

Smegadis is charged with fatally shooting Nick Kimos, 71, last May 28. Police said the shooting in a coffee house stemmed from a feud between the two.

Dover School Chief Resigns Position

DOVER (AP)—D. C. Lemmon has resigned as superintendent of Dover public schools, a post he has held for 11 years.

Lemmon, 52, had been in the city school system here for 30 years and was high school principal for 11 years prior to becoming superintendent.

One reason for his resignation, Lemmon said, was voters' rejection for a second time last November of a construction bond issue.

Household Hints

Plastic covers, made especially for protecting stacks of plates, are a boon if you have a dinner set you don't use often.

Putting in asphalt tile? Remember that only self-polishing wax should be used on it; this wax dries shiny and doesn't need buffing.

For that heavy once-a-week cleaning, keep the supplies you use in a basket and you won't have to gather them together. If the basket has easily gripped handles, it will be easy to carry from room to room.

Brooklyn's St. John's, West Virginia Set Pace For Collegiate Teams

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Top-ranked, West Virginia and untested St. John's of Brooklyn are the only clubs still unbeaten in major college basketball, but the situation might be different were it not for injury and illness.

The Mountaineers and Redmen might have the company of Cincinnati, Kansas or Kansas State if two or three players had been able to stay healthy.

Second-ranked Kansas (12-2) has been beaten only by Oklahoma State and Oklahoma. But Wilt (The Stilt) was on the sidelines for both games.

Fourth-ranked Cincinnati (12-2) has been knocked off by Bradley and Oklahoma State. But although Oscar Robertson, the leading major college scorer, was fit and played in both defeats, the Bearcats' big man, 6-10 Connie Dierking, was out with a broken bone in his foot.

Third-ranked Kansas State (12-1) has lost only to Kansas. But Bob Boozer, the Wildcats top scorer, played less than half the game because of an upset stomach.

West Virginia, running through 13 games to lead The Associated Press poll (none of the ranked teams was in action Tuesday night), and St. John's (8-0) meet Feb. 6 in New York's Madison Square Garden. West Virginia could be all alone in the undefeated list by then, however, since St. John's plays Pittsburgh (Jan. 30) and Temple (Feb. 1) on the road. St. John's is rated 13th.

Cincinnati will meet Bradley again Feb. 12, Oklahoma State Feb. 15—both at Cincinnati.

Maybe the toughest injury of the season was the broken leg that sidelined North Carolina's Joe Quigg. He had been the rebounder and take-charge guy for the Tar Heels, who were unbeaten in winning the NCAA title last year.

They stretched the string to 37 games before losing to West Virginia, and now are eighth-ranked at 12-3.

Buffaloes' Gunner Knapp Retains Lead With 25.7

Roger Knapp, 25.7 again dropping a point from his average, still maintained his Pickaway County scoring leadership by 4 1/2 points over second place John Lininger of New Holland.

Knapp, though tallying 41 points in two games last week for a 20 1/2 average, had a bad week, according to coach Joe Corbett. Knapp's accuracy was off and the little demon had to rely on his driving game to maintain his amazing scoring pace.

New Holland's Lininger, 21.1, moved into second position for the first time after holding down third for six weeks. Two weeks ago John was dropped to fourth place, but due to his consistent scoring of late the Bulldog mainstay is heading for the top.

Lininger was outstanding in two tough contests for New Holland last week scoring 41 points on difficult drives-in in the Stoutsville game and against Darby there was no stopping the heady athlete. He also stood out on defense.

Darby's Ronny Guthell hasn't had it too easy lately, dropping into third place with a 20.9 average. Everyone has been laying for the big boy the past four or five games and he is finding the openings very sparse. Even the weaker teams have concentrated upon stopping the Trojan center. In the last three games Guthell has averaged 14 points per game, six points below his present average.

Fourth place is held by the Trojan's Ned Musselman with 19.6 average. He has taken up where Guthell left off in the scoring. Earlier in the season when Guthell was having his good nights, Musselman was feeding the big boy and letting him garner the points around halting Guthell, Musselman has been shooting more often and the results are more than satisfactory for Darby fans.

Williamsport's Dave Myers remained in fifth place with a 19-point average. Myers is one of 10 men who increased his average this past week. Myers raised his average 4 of a point on performances of 19 against Atlanta and 24 against Walnut for a 21 1/2 point average. The chubby boy put on quite a display of shooting against the Tigers and hit all of his points against Perry under the bucket.

Salt Creek's Gary Valentine held on to sixth place with an 18.7 average. Valentine was especially hot against Jackson, hitting everything and ably assisting his teammates to a narrow 62-56 victory over the Wildcats.

Bob Hoover, one of the dependable stars of the Ashville Broncos, removed Jackson's Galloway from seventh position with a 17.1 average. This is an increase of almost a point from last week. Hoover has impressed everyone who has witnessed his playing, with his sensational rebounding. Friday night's contest, pitting New Holland against the Broncos, will be interesting because two of the county's outstanding centers will meet, Hoover and Linger.

Chuck Galloway, the Jackson side court set shot ace, has been having trouble lately, trying too hard and ultimately defeating himself. Galloway had a good night against Madison Mills but

Bulldog Shaw Ups Area Lead

Stoutsville's Hill Moves to Third

Centralia's Bobby Shaw increased his leading area scoring average by 1.2 to reign two points on top with a 19.1 Shaw had his best night yet this season with a 35-point evening against South-eastern.

The Bulldogs automatically went up court when Shaw let the ball loose on his deadly jump and set shots from the side, Friday night.

Laurelville's Gary Allen remained in second position with a 17.3 average as the Indians were without a game last week. Allen will get an opportunity to gain on Shaw, as Laurelville tangled with a top central Ohio quintet last night, Lancaster St. Marys.

Stoutsville's Ronny Hill moved into vacated third place as Allen leaped into second, replacing Amanda's Delong. Hill experienced two bad nights as he was held to 23 points for an 11 1/2 point average. Against Berne Union, the corner set shot artist severely sprained his ankle and was removed early from the game. He tallied eight points.

The Aces' Neil Delong suffered the poorest night of his basketball career last Friday as Amanda was upset by winless Millersport 44 to 38. Delong couldn't pry the lid off the bucket and was scoreless for the evening. Delong dropped 1 1/2 points from his average and fell to fourth position.

STOUTSVILLE'S Ray Reinhold continued this list of players suffering poor nights as he was held to two points against defensive-minded New Holland. Reinhold was unable to cope with Bulldog John Lininger, who blocked many of Reinhold's attempts from the field. Reinhold dropped 1 1/2 points for an average of 15.5 this week.

Floyd Myers, the Centralia mountain whom no one wants to tangle with, has been concentrating on feeding ace Shaw and therefore his scoring has fallen off to an eight point average in the past few games. Myers is in sixth place with a 14.9 average, dropping 1/2 point.

Kingston's Larry Large appeared in the top 10 this week with an 11.8 average, replacing teammate Emory Carper. This is Large's first berth in the elite column as he has come into his own in the past few games.

Amanda's Skip Young, along with Laurelville's Dave Hinton and Dick Young, round out the top 10.

Darby Five Jolts Fairfield, 89-52

The Darby Trojans last night blasted a tough Fairfield quintet for an 89-52 victory. According to Darby coach, John McPherson the Trojans played their best game of the year.

The Torjan's two great scorers came back into their own last night as Ronny Guthell tallied 22 points and Ned Musselman hit for 24. Both men were tremendous with their jump shots from five to six feet out around the bucket. Along with Drummond they covered both bankboards faultlessly.

Darby grabbed an enormous 20-6 first quarter lead and were on top 44-12 at halftime. The Fairfield squad entered the game with just three losses, but couldn't get started against the rangy Trojans.

Darby was passing and handling the agate like a baseball and experienced the best first half they have had this season. Soph Tommy Walters again shined as he handled the ball as if he has been playing for years and time and again faked out his man with the greatest of ease.

THE Trojans eased up some in the third period and allowed Fairfield to outscore them 20-16. In the first half the Trojans employed a fast break that even Guthell participated in to run the score way out of range.

Darby came back in the final period to rack up 29 points to Fairfield's 20 for one of its most satisfactory wins of the year. Defensively, Darby was outstanding as Guthell and Ned Musselman blocked many of Fairfield's shots with their leaping ability.

Merritt was the opponent's finest shot and in the first half he was held to four points as Walters and Gary Wardell took turns guarding him. The final half he was allowed to float. McPherson said he was one of the best line shots he has seen this year.

John Drummond, with 19 points, played his best game of the year as he used his height to its natural advantage and garnered a number of his points on tip-ins. He also was hitting from the corner with a jump shot.

Darby now stands 11-1 on the year and has the best record in the County. The Trojans only loss came at the hands of a hot Amanda team early in the season. Fairfield absorbed its fourth loss. The Fairfield squad had one unusual trait of rarely shooting a jump shot.

Laurelville Drops Game

Lancaster Unit Posts 62-53 Win

Laurelville lost its second game of the year to a well-balanced Lancaster St. Marys squad, 62-53. The game was played last night at Laurelville.

The Wildcats got off to a slow start and never made up for it. By the end of the first quarter St. Marys led 19-10 as Laurelville incurred too many turnovers, losing the ball for a St. Marys score.

The Wildcats held Lancaster even in the second period as each team tallied 11 points, for a Lancaster lead of 30-21, which they maintained throughout the game.

In the third quarter St. Marys again caught Laurelville off balance to score 24 points to the Wildcats 16. Laurelville employed its most lethal weapon, the fast break, and it would have worked except that Gary Allen and Dave Hinton, the Wildcats speedsters,

Brooklyn's St. John's,
West Virginia Set Pace
For Collegiate Teams

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Top-ranked West Virginia and untested St. John's of Brooklyn are the only clubs still unbeaten in major college basketball, but the situation might be different were it not for injury and illness.

The Mountaineers and Redmen might have the company of Cincinnati, Kansas or Kansas State if two or three players had been able to stay healthy.

Second-ranked Kansas (12-2) has been beaten only by Oklahoma State and Oklahoma. But Wilt (The Stilt) was on the sidelines for both games.

Fourth-ranked Cincinnati (12-2) has been knocked off by Bradley and Oklahoma State. But although Oscar Robertson, the leading major college scorer, was fit and played in both defeats, the Bearcats' big man, 6-10 Connie Dierking, was out with a broken bone in his foot.

Third-ranked Kansas State (12-1) has lost only to Kansas. But Bob Boozer, the Wildcats top scorer, played less than half the game because of an upset stomach.

West Virginia, running through 13 games to lead The Associated Press poll (none of the ranked teams was in action Tuesday night), and St. John's (8-0) meet Feb. 6 in New York's Madison Square Garden. West Virginia could be all alone in the undefeated list by then, however, since St. John's plays Pittsburgh (Jan. 30) and Temple (Feb. 1) on the road. St. John's is rated 13th.

Cincinnati will meet Bradley again Feb. 12, Oklahoma State Feb. 15-both at Cincinnati.

Maybe the toughest injury of the season was the broken leg that sidelined North Carolina's Joe Quigg. He had been the rebounder and take-charge guy for the Tar Heels, who were unbeaten in winning the NCAA title last year. They stretched the string to 37 games before losing to West Virginia, and now are eighth-ranked at 12-3.

Junior High Semifinals Set Tonight

The Pickaway County Junior High case tournament rushes into its last stages with two semifinal games slated at Jackson tonight.

Contenders for honors tonight are Deer Creek vs Darby and Ashville vs Wayne.

Williamsport, Darby and Wayne will be looking for their third wins in the tourney. Ashville has won its only game played in the junior high action.

Both games promise plenty of action and excitement. This stage of tournament always features the elite of the young county cagers.

The four teams tonight will be striving desperately to win a berth in the all-important championship game scheduled Saturday night at Jackson.

Buffaloes' Gunner Knapp Retains Lead With 25.7

Roger Knapp, 25.7 again dropping a point from his average, still maintained his Pickaway County scoring leadership by 4½ points over second place John Lininger of New Holland.

Knapp, though tallying 41 points in two games last week for a 20½ average, had a bad week, according to coach Joe Corbett. Knapp's accuracy was off and the little demon had to rely on his driving game to maintain his amazing scoring pace.

New Holland's Lininger, 21.1, moved into second position for the first time after holding down third for six weeks. Two weeks ago John was dropped to fourth place, but due to his consistent scoring of late the Bulldogs' mainstay is heading for the top.

Lininger was outstanding in two tough contests for New Holland last week scoring 41 points on difficult drives-ins in the Stoutsville game and against Darby there was no stopping the heady athlete. He also stood out on defense.

Darby's Ronny Guthell hasn't had it too easy lately, dropping into third place with a 20.9 average. Everyone has been laying for the big boy the past four or five games and he is finding the openings very sparse. Even the weaker teams have concentrated upon stopping the Trojan center. In the last three games Guthell has averaged 14 points per game, six points below his present average.

Fourth place is held by the Trojan's Ned Musselman with 19.6 average. He has taken up where Guthell left off in the scoring. Earlier in the season when Guthell was having his good nights, Musselman was feeding the big boy and letting him garner the points around halting Guthell, Musselman has been shooting more often and the results are more than satisfactory for Darby fans.

WILLIAMSPORT'S Dave Myers remained in fifth place with a 19.0 average. Myers is one of 10 men who increased his average this past week. Myers raised his average 4 of a point on performances of 19 against Atlanta and 24 against Walnut for a 21½ point average. The chubby boy put on quite a display of shooting against the Tigers and hit all of his points against Perry under the bucket.

Salt Creek's Gary Valentine held on to sixth place with an 18.7 average. Valentine was especially hot against Jackson, hitting everything and ably assisting his teammates to a narrow 62-56 victory over the Wildcats.

Bob Hoover, one of the dependable stars of the Ashville Broncos, removed Jackson's Galloway from seventh position with a 17.1 average. This is an increase of almost a point from last week. Hoover has impressed everyone who has witnessed his playing, with his sensational rebounding. Friday night's contest, pitting New Holland against the Broncos, will be interesting because two of the county's outstanding centers will meet, Hoover and Lininger.

Chuck Galloway, the Jackson side court set shot ace, has been having trouble lately, trying too hard and ultimately defeating himself. Galloway had a good night against Madison Mills but last Friday night couldn't do anything right and was held to eight points. Chuck has a 16.7 average, dropping 0.4 of a point.

Salt Creek's Fred Murray still maintained eighth place, despite some poor evenings in the past few weeks. Murray has remained in the top 10 due to his stellar performances earlier in the season. Since his return from a one week's absence Murray hasn't regained his form. He has a 14.5 average, dropping 0.3 of a point. Fred at one time held at 16.2 average.

Ashville's Dick Hoover rounded out the top 10 with a 13.8 average. Dick has been effective from around the side court where he had a driving shot that is unstoppable once he is around the corner.

SCIOTO'S Gary Clark dropped to 11th place with a 13.7 average as teammate Dickie Melvin has taken over scoring along with County leader, Knapp. Melvin with a 13.3 average jumped from 20th position to 13th, increasing ½ point in one week. Little Dickie's favorite shot is a drive under the bucket or stopping and shooting from the side.

12th slot is held by Ashville's Don Rathburn with a 13.5 average. When Don and the Hoover boys are all on a hot night, there is no stopping the Broncos. Rathburn has been steadily improving and Dick Hoover has finally found his eye. By tournament time, which is less than a month away, Ashville will be right up in everybody's favorite book to cop the tourney.

Williamsport's Eddie James returned to the top 20 with a 11.9 average, good for 17th place. James has been partially responsible for the fine showing of Myers. Miniature Eddie is a dangerous ball player for he can hit whenever Myers or 16th position Nick Stonerock are tied up.

Monroe's Steve Fullen, who has been in and out of the elite column, with a 10.8 average tied for 20th with Walnut's Boyd Barr, who slowly has been slipping along with the entire Walnut team.

Scioto, Williamsport and Ashville placed three men in the top 20. Darby placed two men in the top five and Ashville and Salt Creek placed two men in the top 10.

Bulldog Shaw Ups Area Lead

Stoutsville's Hill
Moves to Third

Centralia's Bobby Shaw increased his leading area scoring average by 1.2 to reign two points on top with a 19.1 Shaw had his best night yet this season with a 35-point evening against South-eastern.

The Bulldogs automatically went up court when Shaw let the ball loose on his deadly jump and set shots from the side, Friday night.

Laurelville's Gary Allen remained in second position with a 17.3 average as the Indians were without a game last week. Allen will get an opportunity to gain on Shaw, as Laurelville tangled with a top central Ohio quintet last night, Lancaster St. Mary's.

Stoutsville's Ronny Hill moved into vacated third place as Allen leaped into second, replacing Amanda's Delong. Hill experienced two bad nights as he was held to 23 points for an 11½ point average. Against Berne Union, the corner set shot artist severely sprained his ankle and was removed early from the game. He tied the eighth points.

The Aces' Neil Delong suffered the poorest night of his basketball career last Friday as Amanda was upset by winless Millersport 44 to 23. Delong couldn't pry the lid off the bucket and was scoreless for the evening. Delong dropped 1½ points from his average and fell to fourth position.

STOUTSVILLE'S Ray Reinhold continued this list of players suffering poor nights as he was held to two points against defensive-minded New Holland. Reinhold was unable to cope with Bulldog John Lininger, who blocked many of Reinhold's attempts from the field. Reinhold dropped 1½ points for an average of 15.5 this week.

Floyd Myers, the Centralia mountain whom no one wants to tangle with, has been concentrating on feeding ace Shaw and therefore his scoring has fallen off to an eight point average in the past few games. Myers is in sixth place with a 14.9 average, dropping ½ point.

Kingston's Larry Large appeared in the top 10 this week with an 11.8 average, replacing teammate Emory Carper. This is Large's first berth in the elite column as he has come into his own in the past few games.

Amanda's Skip Young, along with Laurelville's Dave Hinton and Dick Young, round out the top 10.

Darby Five Jolts Fairfield, 89-52

The Darby Trojans last night blasted a tough Fairfield quintet for an 89-52 victory. According to Darby coach, John McPherson the Trojans played their best game of the year.

The Trojans' two great scorers came back into their own last night as Ronny Guthell tallied 22 points and Ned Musselman hit for 24. Both men were tremendous with their jump shots from five to six feet out around the bucket. Along with Drummond they covered both bankboards faultlessly.

Darby grabbed an enormous 20-6 first quarter lead and were on top 44-12 at halftime. The Fairfield squad entered the game with just three losses, but couldn't get started against the rangy Trojans.

Darby was passing and handling the agate like a baseball and experienced the best first half they have had this season. Soph Tommy Walters again shined as he handled the ball as if he has been playing for years and time and again faked out his man with the greatest of ease.

THE Trojans eased up some in the third period and allowed Fairfield to outscore them 20-16. In the first half the Trojans employed a fast break that even Guthell participated in to run the score way out of range.

Darby came back in the final period to rack up 29 points to Fairfield's 20 for one of its most satisfactory wins of the year. Defensively, Darby was outstanding as Guthell and Ned Musselman blocked many of Fairfield's shots with their leaping ability.

Merritt was the opponent's finest shot and in the first half he was held to four points as Walters and Gary Wardell took turns guarding him. The final half he was allowed to float. McPherson said he was one of the best line shots he has seen this year.

John Drummond, with 19 points, played his best game of the year as he used his height to its natural advantage and garnered a number of his points on tip-ins. He also was hitting from the corner with a jump shot.

Darby now stands 11-1 on the year and has the best record in the County. The Trojans only loss came at the hands of a hot Amanda team early in the season. Fairfield absorbed its fourth loss. The Fairfield squad had one unusual trait of rarely shooting a jump shot.

Amanda Drops 67-60 Test to Reynoldsburg

The Amanda Aces continued their tailspin toward the bottom last night dropping a 67-60 contest to Reynoldsburg. The game was at Reynoldsburg.

The Aces only bright spot was the stellar play of their center, Gene Miller, who was hitting from all over the court. Miller has played fine ball in his last few outings, but is unable to make up for the below par showing of teammates Skip Young and Neil Delong.

Both Young, nine, and Delong, ten haven't been able to get back in the "groove" since the Christmas holidays and the only reason they remain in the top 10 of area scorers is on their earlier season fine play.

Amanda led 20-15 at the end of the first quarter, but allowed Reynoldsburg to tie things up at half-

Laurelville Drops Game

Lancaster Unit
Posts 62-53 Win

Laurelville lost its second game of the year to a well-balanced Lancaster St. Mary's squad, 62-53. The game was played last night at Laurelville.

The Wildcats got off to a slow start and never made up for it. By the end of the first quarter St. Mary's led 19-10 as Laurelville incurred too many turnovers, losing the ball for a St. Mary's score.

The Wildcats held Lancaster even in the second period as each team tallied 11 points, for a Lancaster lead of 30-21, which they maintained throughout the game.

In the third quarter St. Mary's again caught Laurelville off balance to score 24 points to the Wildcats 16. Laurelville employed its most lethal weapon, the fast break, and it would have worked except that Gary Allen and Dave Hinton, the Wildcats speedsters, were missing the layups after they broke loose.

AFTER trailing 54-37 at the three quarter mark the Wildcats rallied to double the score on St. Mary's in the final quarter, 16-8, but to no avail. Gary Allen led Laurelville with 18 points on outside sets and what drive-ins he didn't miss. Hinton followed Allen in the scoring with 13 points, most of them coming from the outside. Shonk and Stickford were tied for scoring honors for St. Mary's with 20 points each. Shonk, 6-1, was tough under the bucket and Stickford hit his points from the side.

Cincinnati Seeks Answer: 'Is It Good Sports Town?'

CINCINNATI (AP)—Wanted — a firm answer as to whether Cincinnati is or is not what is called "a good sports town."

That question has popped again recently in this city which still prides itself on being Ohio's second largest city — although Columbus rapidly is catching up.

With a population within the city of approximately a half million persons living in surrounding towns there is no lack of potential customers but sometimes they turn out and sometimes they don't.

The field of professional sports offers the knottiest problems as witness these situations:

1. The town has been in a tizzy for the last few weeks because owner Powel Crosley, Jr., said he might move the Cincinnati Reds to another city—not because of lack of attendance but because of inadequate parking facilities around the ball park. Redleg officials feel, of course, that they might do even better at the gate if there were better parking facilities which now have been tentatively promised by the city.

2. Cincinnati entered the National Basketball Association for the first time this year but even with a team that has been in second place in the league's western division consistently, owner Les Harrison said recently the club was "just about keeping its head above water." He assured Cincinnatians, however, that the team would be kept here at least through next season.

3. The Cincinnati Mohawks of the International Hockey League, a minor league, have won five straight league championships and are headed for a sixth but hockey has never been a big paying venture here. In spite of that, club President Tom Grace recently said he thought Cincinnati should be playing "more representative cities" and there have been recurring rumors the team might go back into the stronger American League.

There never has been any question about baseball interest here even though the Redlegs have had some lean years at the gate. The Reds and baseball are a conversation piece the year 'round but there the paradox shows up again.

Hundreds of times during the season you'll hear long baseball arguments and discussions punctuated by the statement, "I haven't seen a game this season." And Redleg officials are quick to admit a tremendous share of their attendance comes from other cities in Kentucky, West Virginia, Indiana and other states.

That influx of out-of-town fans has helped boost the Redleg attendance past the million mark for each of the last two years. The club has reported $300,000 profit in 1957.

As to the Royals of the NBA, the pro basketball sport has been slow to catch on here even though two of Cincinnati's most popular former college stars—Jack Twyman and Dane Piontek—are on the team.

The Royals' biggest crowds have come when they were playing the famed Boston Celtics, but slightly better than 7,000 has been the biggest turnout.

The speculation about the hockey Mohawks frequently centers around the idea that fans are surfeited with winning easily against weak opposition. For a time this season, when the team was getting some rugged competition the attendance was well above last year. Now it's below.

The first 18 games of the 1956-57 season drew 46,887 or an average of 2,605 a game. The first 18 games this season drew 45,745 or a 2,541 average.

But those who argue that Cincinnati is a "good sports town" refer back to the weekend of Jan. 10-13 when in a 72-hour period there were three pro basketball games, two college games and a hockey game played here. The Royals drew 2,541 on Friday night, 3,251 on Saturday afternoon despite the fact the game started at the weird hour of 1 p. m. and was televised, and 7,231 against the Celtics on Sunday night. The University of Cincinnati drew 7,275 for its Saturday night game against North Texas State and 5,296 on a rainy Monday night against Houston. And the Mohawks drew 4,157 for their Saturday night game against Indianapolis.

That figures up to 29,751 paying customers for six events in 72 hours. Baseball, of course, is an old story in Cincinnati. The Queen City had the first professional team in the country and the Reds were charter members of the National League in 1876.

There has been pro hockey here since 1949-50 season and the first three years the team was in the American League.

There hasn't been any pro league football here since 1934. The old Cincinnati Bengals joined the National Football League in 1933 but lasted only through part of the next season.

Deers Defeat Frankfort Five

Third Frame Rally Brings 55-50 Win

Williamsport, trailing for three quarters, rallied in the final period last night to register its eighth victory, defeating Frankfort 55-50.

Well balanced scoring high lighted a successful evening as four Deercreek men were in the double figure column.

Williamsport was effective under the bucket as Max Reeser, Nick Stonerock and Dave Myers tallied most of their points from around the hoop.

Frankfort led 19-16 at the end of the first quarter and 34-29 at half-time. Their attack was spirited by Ben Simmons who proved to be a tough man-to handle around the bucket with his rebounding.

FRANKFORT still maintained a 44-38 lead at the three quarter mark, but the Deers rallied for 17 points in the final period to Frankfort's six for the win. Williamsport won at the charity line scoring 11 times to Frankfort's three.

The game was cleanly played by both opponents. Frankfort's Forum led the scoring for both teams with 16 points followed by Simmons with 15.

Dave Humphrey was high man for the Deers with 14 points most of them coming on an arching outside set shot that made the fans wonder if the ball ever was going to come down. Dave Myers, followed with 13 as he made big holes out of little ones under the bank boards. Reeser and Stonerock both scored 11 each, the majority of them close to the boards.

Eastern Cage Pros Proud Of Victory in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"This one gave me more satisfaction than any All-Star victory the East has ever won."

Boston's Red Auerbach was talking and the old pro of his Boston Celtics, Bob Cousy, smiled and nodded.

"This one," Auerbach said, "was in St. Louis. We would rather win here than anywhere."

The favored East team, 10 points down early in the last half, battled back and won going away Tuesday night 130-118, with Cousy dazzling.

They did it despite an all-out effort by Bob Pettit, the St. Louis Hawks star, who set NBA All-Star records with 28 points and 26 rebounds. And they did it despite a partisan St. Louis Arena crowd of 12,854, which gave Auerbach and his Celtics a strong booing.

Pettit's performance earned him the most valuable player award for the second time. Cousy, himself a two-time winner of the honors had 20 points and 10 assists and was second in the voting.

Auerbach said he couldn't pick a turning point.

"We just began hitting and they weren't," he said.

West coach Alex Hannum was downcast but praised the efforts of his west all-stars.

"I felt mighty sick when I saw Bobby (Pettit) on the floor after Slater Martin had gone out," Alex said.

Pettit suffered a slight knee sprain. Martin had what physicians termed a torn muscle fibre. It may keep him out for a while.

The East's superior experience told the game's story as Cousy and veteran Paul Arizin of Philadelphia, a 24-point scorer, led the way.

Scioto Drubs Mt. Sterling Behind Melvin's 26 Points

The Scioto Buffaloes avenged last year's double overtime loss to Mt. Sterling last night by downing the Madison County quintet, 66 to 47. Scioto met a veteran squad that lost but one starter from last year's club.

Led by sizzling Dickie Melvin, the Buffaloes had a relatively easy time last night, leading at all quarters and gave experience to several members of their second team in the final period.

The game started slow as Mt. Sterling made Scioto play its deliberate type of ball. Both teams used a zone defense and Scioto led 18-13 at the end of the first period.

Starting the second quarter Melvin hit a hot streak and scored five buckets in a row to light a fire under the Buffaloes who led 32-24 at halftime. Melvin hit for 26 points during the evening, and garnered 16 of them in the first half.

SCIOTO was matched in the third period scoring 14 points to Mt. Sterling's 12, but opened up in the final period for 20 points to win going away. Mt. Sterling tallied 11 during the fourth quarter.

Roger Knapp had his poorest night of the season, scoring seven points as he sat out the second quarter with three personals. When playing Knapp concentrated on feeding Melvin who was hitting from the outside.

Gary Clark also had a good evening, getting started in the second half as he scored 14 of his 16 points during the final two periods. Clark was cutting across the center and taking passes from Knapp, who though not scoring as usual, played one of his better team games by feeding his mates with superb accuracy.

The Scioto reserves completed the evening by blasting the Mt. Sterling squad, 45 to 39. This was a proud victory for the Scioto junior varsity as the Mt. Sterling quintet is the one team to defeat the Jonathan Alder reserve team.

Pontious EUB, Ringgold Win Church Games

Ringgold defeated Stoutsville, 61-54, and Pontious EUB garnered a victory over the Circleville Bible College, 63-51, in the area Church basketball league last night.

Pontious defeated the Bible College on field goals, making 27 to Bible's 20. The Bible College made 11 free throws compared to Pontious's nine.

Tom Hermiz led the scoring for both teams with 25 points and was followed by teammate Chuck Isaacs with 11. Dave Johns and Don Hinton were the leading scorers for Pontious with 17 points each and Bob Goodman had 13.

Stoutsville and Ringgold battled all the way before Ringgold eked out a narrow 61-54 win. Stoutsville was on top 20-16 at the end of the first quarter. Ringgold rallied in the second period to take a 29-26 lead at halftime.

A&M Trying Again To Select Coach

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—The Texas A&M College board of directors met in special session today amid indications that the school's confusing and sometimes stormy search for a football coach may be near an end.

The board was expected to formally cancel its instructions to a four-man directors subcommittee and hand the task of recommending a coach back to the faculty athletic council.

The chairman of the faculty group, Dr. Chris Groneman, disclosed Tuesday night his group has stopped interviewing candidates. He refused to elaborate.

Mansfield Grid Coach Joins College Ranks

MANFIELD (AP)—Robert McNea, football coach at Mansfield High School, has resigned to become freshman football coach at Northwestern University.

McNea said he is leaving for his new post immediately. He coached Mansfield the last four years.

Both McNea and Ara Parseghian, head football coach at Northwestern, are graduates of Miami University.

BOTH teams scored 14 points in the third period. Ringgold outscored Stoutsville four points in the final quarter to salt away the victory.

Ringgold's N. McPherson took scoring honors for the game with 25 points on 11 field goals and three free throws. J. Young had 11 to follow teammate McPherson in the scoring.

Justus with 17 and Valentine, 11, led Stoutsville.

Pontious EUB, Ringgold Win Church Games

SCIOTO was matched in the third period scoring 14 points to Mt. Sterling's 12, but opened up in the final period for 20 points to win going away. Mt. Sterling tallied 11 during the fourth quarter.

Roger Knapp had his poorest night of the season, scoring seven points as he sat out the second quarter with three personals. When playing Knapp concentrated on feeding Melvin who was hitting from the outside.

Gary Clark also had a good evening, getting started in the second half as he scored 14 of his 16 points during the final two periods. Clark was cutting across the center and taking passes from Knapp, who though not scoring as usual, played one of his better team games by feeding his mates with superb accuracy.

The Scioto reserves completed the evening by blasting the Mt. Sterling squad, 45 to 39. This was Ringgold defeated Stoutsville, 61-54, and Pontious EUB garnered a victory over the Circleville Bible College, 63-51, in the area Church basketball league last night.

Pontious defeated the Bible College on field goals, making 27 to Bible's 20. The Bible College made 11 free throws compared to Pontious's nine.

Tom Hermiz led the scoring for both teams with 25 points and was followed by teammate Chuck Isaacs with 11. Dave Johns and Don Hinton were the leading scorers for Pontious with 17 points each and Bob Goodman had 13.

Stoutsville and Ringgold battled all the way before Ringgold eked out a narrow 61-54 win. Stoutsville was on top 20-16 at the end of the first quarter. Ringgold rallied in the second period to take a 29-26 lead at halftime.

A&M Trying Again To Select Coach

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—The Texas A&M College board of directors met in special session today amid indications that the school's confusing and sometimes stormy search for a football coach may be near an end.

The board was expected to formally cancel its instructions to a four-man directors subcommittee and hand the task of recommending a coach back to the faculty athletic council.

The chairman of the faculty group, Dr. Chris Groneman, disclosed Tuesday night his group has stopped interviewing candidates. He refused to elaborate.

Mansfield Grid Coach Joins College Ranks

MANSFIELD (AP)—Robert McNea, football coach at Mansfield High School, has resigned to become freshman football coach at Northwestern University.

McNea said he is leaving for his new post immediately. He coached Mansfield the last four years.

Both McNea and Ara Parseghian, head football coach at Northwestern, are graduates of Miami University.

BOTH teams scored 14 points in the third period. Ringgold outscored Stoutsville four points in the final quarter to salt away the victory.

Ringgold's N. McPherson took scoring honors for the game with 25 points on 11 field goals and three free throws. J. Young had 11 to follow teammate McPherson in the scoring.

Justus with 17 and Valentine, 11, led Stoutsville.

Deers Defeat Frankfort Five

Third Frame Rally Brings 55-50 Win

Williamsport, trailing for three quarters, rallied in the final period last night to register its eighth victory, defeating Frankfort 55-50.

Well balanced scoring high lighted a successful evening as four Deercreek men were in the double figure column.

Williamsport was effective under the bucket as Max Reeser, Nick Stonerock and Dave Myers tallied most of their points from around the hoop.

Frankfort led 19-16 at the end of the first quarter and 34-29 at halftime. Their attack was spirited by Simmons who proved to be a tough

Take All Advantages Due; Your Status Affects Rate

Editor's Note: Advantages of the various classes of returns are listed in this third article in an eight-part series on your income tax. Exemptions, non-taxable income, deductions and other topics will be dealt with later. Clip out all the articles for use when you file your return.

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Newsfeatures Writer

We've seen how you can save money by picking the right form on which to file your income tax return. In the same way, you can save money by correctly choosing the taxpayer class into which you fall.

Basically there are four classes of returns:

1. The separate return.
2. The joint return.
3. The special joint return for certain recent widows and widowers.

4. The special "head of household" return for certain single persons or those legally separated from their husband or wife.

The separate return is for single taxpayers or those married taxpayers who prefer to file individual returns. In practically all cases married couples do better by filing a joint return. However, they must file separate returns if:

1. Either the husband or wife was a nonresident alien at any time of the year.
2. Husband and wife use different tax years. The husband, for instance, may report on a fiscal year basis such as from July 1 to June 30, while the wife pays taxes on a calendar year basis.
3. The husband and wife became divorced or legally separated at any time of the year, up to and including Dec. 31.

If the separate return is used, each individual must report his own income and list his own exemptions and deductions.

If husband and wife file separately, both must have income under the laws of their state. Many states have community property laws where the wife has half the family income even though she earns nothing herself. In these states, where expenses are paid from community income, the deductions may be split equally between man and wife. In all cases where husband and wife file separate returns, if one itemizes the deductions, the other must also itemize.

If you file separately you may use either the form 1040 or the 1040A, depending on how you qualify as outlined in the previous article.

There are normally just two situations in which married couples can benefit by filing separately instead of jointly. Both are comparatively rare.

If both husband and wife are working, and both had capital losses of $1,000 or more, it might pay them to file separately. The law provides that no more than $1,000 in capital losses may be deducted on any one return. By filing separately, they could get a total deduction of $2,000.

The second situation involves medical expenses. Suppose that the husband had an adjusted gross income of $10,000 and no medical bills, and that the wife had an adjusted gross income of $5,000, with medical bills of $500.

The law provides that you can deduct only those medical and dental costs which exceed 3 per cent of your adjusted gross income. If this couple filed jointly they would be able to deduct only everything over $450 (3 per cent of their combined $15,000), or a deduction of $50. However, if the wife filed separately, she could deduct everything over $150 (3 per cent of her $5,000), or a deduction of $350.

Even so, in practically every case the advantages of splitting income with a joint return outweighs any savings made by separate reporting of medical and dental deductions.

A husband and wife may file a joint return and get the advantage of the lower tax rates. If one of them had no income during the year, both husband and wife must sign the joint return, and it must include all the income earned by both of them. You can file a joint return if you were married any time during the year, and remained married for the balance of the year.

The joint return is a financial boon to most married couples because of the way the tax rate goes up as income increases—not because you pay on any less income. In effect, the joint income is split into two equal parts and the tax is then doubled. Your total tax, then, is the combined tax on the two halves, usually considerably smaller than it would be at the tax rate on the total income.

If your husband or wife died anytime during 1957—even on the first day of the year—you can still file a joint return and claim an exemption for your deceased spouse. In general, you file just as you would have had your spouse lived through the year.

If your husband or wife died during 1955 or 1956 you still can get a tax break from Uncle Sam if you meet certain qualifications. That brings us to the special joint return for certain recent widows and widowers.

This return cannot be filed on the short and easy form 1040A, you must use form 1040. On the return you claim only your own exemption and deductions, but you use schedule two on page 11 of the instructions in figuring your tax and thus you get the benefit of the split income provisions.

Providing that your spouse died at anytime during 1955 or 1956, you get this tax break if:

You have not remarried through the end of 1957 (if you have, of course, you can file jointly with your new spouse);

You were entitled to file jointly with the deceased spouse at the time of death (he or she was not a nonresident alien, etc.); and

Since that death you have maintained a home which is the principal living place of a child or stepchild for whom you are entitled to claim a dependency exemption.

If your spouse died earlier than in 1955, you may still get a tax break if you qualify as a special "head of household."

This return, which can be made only on the form 1040, is for single, divorced or legally separated persons who maintain a household. It also applies to anyone married during 1957 to a nonresident alien.

If you qualify as a "head of household" your tax bill will be lower than if you filed separately. Your special rates will be found in schedule three on page 11 of the instruction booklet that comes with form 1040. You will note that they

Pen Inmate Claims Sentence Illegal

COLUMBUS (AP)—A Shelby County inmate of Ohio Penitentiary claims he was convicted of a crime that took place while he was in jail in Sidney.

The inmate, Richard Baker, 25, filing a writ of habeas corpus, charges he was "coerced" into changing his plea from innocent to guilty when he went to trial Feb. 18, 1956.

Shelby County Sheriff M. Gearhart had no comment other than to say that Baker's allegations "are completely false" and that he will answer them if called into court.

are lower than those in schedule one for single taxpayers.

These are the requirements you must meet:

1. You must maintain a home which is the principal residence of your unmarried child, stepchild or grandchild, even though not a dependent of yours, or any other relative whom you are entitled to claim as a dependent, or
2. You must pay more than half the cost of maintaining a separate household for your mother or father, if either qualifies as your dependent. The test here is whether you pay more than half the cost of keeping the home, including such things as mortgage interest, rent, taxes, insurance on the home and the like.

The next article will deal with exemption, the biggest single tax-cutting device in the book.

Jesse Lasky Followed Set Formula in Movie-Making

Editor's Note: Following is the last in a series of articles tracing the career of the late Jesse Lasky, famed motion picture producer.

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Pioneer producer Jesse Lasky once gave this observation of film making:

"The public wants sheer entertainment with a little uplift, a little hope. It does not want depressing stories, unhappy endings (with an occasional exception) and it does not care much for fantasy."

"But that is only a formula. To find stories that contain those elements is another matter."

Lasky devoted the last 25 years of his life to such a quest. Broke and removed as head of Paramount, which he helped found, he devoted his intense enthusiasm to finding suitable film subjects and selling them to the studios and the public.

One of his first films as an independent was "The Power and the Glory," which told its story in flashback after the death of the hero, a technique later used by others. The film started Spencer Tracy on the road to stardom.

Lasky had signed tenor Nino Martini, but had two failures.

Undaunted, Lasky tried again with "The Gay Desperado" when he joined forces with Mary Pickford to produce movies. This time, Martini, but had two failures.

During a lull in producing, Lasky decided to dip into radio. He promoted a show called "Gateway To Hollywood," in which unknowns were given a chance to act dramatic roles opposite well-known stars. Two of the winners were Josephine Cottle and Lee Bonnell, who got married and now have four children. Mrs. Bonnell is better known as Gale Storm.

The producer got back into films in a big way with "Sergeant York." He followed this with two other successful biographies at Warner Brothers—"The Adventures of Mark Twain" and "Rhapsody In Blue," the George Gershwin story.

Taking his company to RKO, Lasky starred Claudette Colbert and John Wayne in a rollicking comedy, "Without Reservations."

If your spouse died earlier than in 1955, you may still get a tax break if you qualify as a special "head of household."

This return, which can be made only on the form 1040, is for single, divorced or legally separated persons who maintain a household. It also applies to anyone married during 1957 to a nonresident alien.

If you qualify as a "head of household" your tax bill will be lower than if you filed separately. Your special rates will be found in schedule three on page 11 of the instruction booklet that comes with form 1040. You will note that they

COLUMBUS (AP)—A Shelby County inmate of Ohio Penitentiary claims he was convicted of a crime that took place while he was in jail in Sidney.

The inmate, Richard Baker, 25, filing a writ of habeas corpus, charges he was "coerced" into changing his plea from innocent to guilty when he went to trial Feb. 18, 1956.

Shelby County Sheriff M. Gearhart had no comment other than to say that Baker's allegations "are completely false" and that he will answer them if called into court.

Marion Cop Official Is Handed Suspension

MARION (AP)—Marion Police Inspector Clyde Hardin was suspended for 28 days without pay Tuesday by Safety Service Director Howard W. Travis.

Travis said Hardin has been found "guilty of conduct unbecoming an officer, and acted in a way to cause dissension in the police department." Travis did not elaborate.

are lower than those in schedule one for single taxpayers.

These are the requirements you must meet:

1. You must maintain a home which is the principal residence of your unmarried child, stepchild or grandchild, even though not a dependent of yours, or any other relative whom you are entitled to claim as a dependent, or

2. You must pay more than half the cost of maintaining a separate household for your mother or father, if either qualifies as your dependent. The test here is whether you pay more than half the cost of keeping the home, including such things as mortgage interest, rent, taxes, insurance on the home and the like.

The next article will deal with exemption, the biggest single tax-cutting device in the book.

Jesse Lasky Followed Set Formula in Movie-Making

Editor's Note: Following is the last in a series of articles tracing the career of the late Jesse Lasky, famed motion picture producer.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Pioneer producer Jesse Lasky once gave this observation of film making:

"The public wants sheer entertainment with a little uplift, a little hope. It does not want depressing stories, unhappy endings (with an occasional exception) and it does not care much for fantasy."

"But that is only a formula. To find stories that contain those elements is another matter."

Lasky devoted the last 25 years of his life to such a quest. Broke and removed as head of Paramount, which he helped found, he devoted his intense enthusiasm to finding suitable film subjects and selling them to the studios and the public.

One of his first films as an independent was "The Power and the Glory," which told its story in flashback after the death of the hero, a technique later used by others. The film started Spencer Tracy on the road to stardom.

Lasky had signed tenor Nino Martini, but had two failures.

Undaunted, Lasky tried again with "The Gay Desperado" when he joined forces with Mary Pickford to produce movies. This time, Martini, but had two failures.

During a lull in producing, Lasky decided to dip into radio. He promoted a show called "Gateway to Hollywood," in which unknowns were given a chance to act dramatic roles opposite well-known stars. Two of the winners were Josephine Cottle and Lee Bonnell, who got married and now have four children. Mrs. Bonnell is better known as Gale Storm.

The producer got back into films in a big way with "Sergeant York." He followed this with two other successful biographies at Warner Brothers—"The Adventures of Mark Twain" and "Rhapsody in Blue," the George Gershwin story.

Taking his company to RKO, Lasky starred Claudette Colbert and John Wayne in a rollicking comedy, "Without Reservations."
